By C. R. CUNNINGHAM
(UP Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, In the British Isles — The doughboys of the new AEF began rigorous training today for the time they will fight the enemy.

As word spread from one end of Britain to the other than the Yanks had come, American commanders warned their men to expect enemy air raids.

(There were raids over northern Ireland yesterday.)

Refreshed by their first night's sleep on land in some days, the doughboys manned anti-aircraft guns about their scattered posts as one of their first training maneuvers abroad. They eagerly cleaned their new Garand rifles, which had been wrapped during the voyage from America.

Many were still chuckling over a broadcast last night by Lord Haw-Haw, the British traitor broadcasting for the Germans. I was in the barracks last night when Lord Haw-Haw reported solemnly that the entire convoy which had brought them from the United States had been destroyed. The barracks resounded with the laughter of the "victims."

The new AEF wanted to know when it would get a crack at the Germans.

They were ready and eager to Americans and Dutch Smash Hopes For Quick Assault On East Indies.

BULLETIN

BATAVIA, N. E. I.—(AP)—Another heavy Japanese war vessel, believed to be a battleship, was added to the toll of the enemy's disastrous effort to run the straits of Macassar in a recapitulation by the Dutch today.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—New successes for American air and sea units in the Philippine area were announced today by the war department as the Japanese invaders appeared definitely slowed down under smashing blows which halted the rising sun's quick drive into the South Pacific through Macassar strait.

While ground fighting on the Bataan peninsula was reported to have virtually ceased as the result of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's recent successful counter offensive, it was revealed that planes and torpedo boats under his command had scored victories over Japanese aircraft in the Manila area.

The news followed a series of victory announcements for American and Dutch naval and air units against a huge Japanese convoy heading southward through Macassar strait.

The naval battle which has been raging between Borneo and Celebes for two days has, according to military experts, dealt a smashing blow to Japanes hopes of a lightning conquest of the Netherlands Indies.

Incomplete reports place Jap losses in the Macassar battle at between 10 and 15 warships and transports, according to American official reports.

Both the navy and army now have announced successes for America's hard hitting and speedy torpedo boats. In two previous

CHEERED IN COMMONS

Doubts Japs Will Attempt To Invade Australia; Sees Air, Sea Supremacy.

LONDON — (INS) — Firm conviction that Prime Minister Winston Churchill will receive an easy vote of confidence was expressed in house of commons lobbies today as debate began on his war policies.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Prime Minister Churchill presented Britain today with a picture of growing Allied might and unity and demanded that parliament vote confidence in his government.

Against his frank admission that had news has come from the Pacific ocean battlefront, he told the house of commons:

United States troops which have landed in Northern Ireland are only the vanguard of more to come;

United States fighter planes will help defend Britain against air assault;

United States bombers will join the RAF in bombing Germany;

Considerable reinforcements have reached the Malayan front in the past week;

"We are taking many measures with the United States to increase the security of Australia and New Zealand, sending reinforcements, arms and equipment by the best routes."

"It is because I see the light gleaming behind the clouds and broadening upon our path," he said at the end of his candid report of the good and evil in Britain's war fortunes, "that I make so bold now as to demand a declaration of confidence of the house of commons as an additional weapon in the armory of the United Nations."

At the close of the war leader's speech, the house of commons began debate on Britain's war direction which Churchill will wind up with a brief concluding speech this week.

The thunderous cheers that

Roosevelt and Churchill Set Up Boards To Merge All War Resources.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced in a joint statement today creation of a mammoth pool of American and British munitions, shipping and raw materials.

Three joint boards have been set up to merge the combined war resources of the two nations "to further coordination of the United Nations' war effort." They will make Great Britain and the United States partners in vital fields of supply in addition to joint military and naval operations.

The announcement was made simultaneously here and in London. The new program was a result of Churchill's recent conferences with Mr. Roosevelt at the White House.

While not designated as such by the White House announcement, the three boards—com-

Judge Sends Draft Evaders To Pen For 5 Years.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood today sentenced three draft dodgers to five years imprisonment and said that "the court has little sympathy with anyone who refuses to render any kind of service—combatant or non combatant—to his country."

Those sentenced were Floyd Eugene Riemenschneider, 23 and his brother, George Irvin Riemenschneider, 22 of Marietta, and Ralph Edward Dunkel, 24, of Circleville.

All three had contended that they are conscientious objectors to military service. The Riemenschneiders are members of Jehovah's Witnesses and they said they are ministers in that religious group.

Senate Committee Approves Big Appropriation for Planes.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The senate appropriations committee in a burst of speed today voted to report a $12,555,000,000 appropriation bill to give the nation 33,000 new airplanes.

The bill, largest single arms bill in history until a new naval bill was presented yesterday, will go far toward enabling the government to meet President Roosevelt's program of 60,000 planes this year.

Sugar? Well, You Can Get Along Nicely Without It

In Fact Those 12 Ounces the Government Will Allot You Each Week Only Serve As a 'Palate-Tickler.'

By ALVIN L. KRIEG

Twelve ounces of sugar a week.

Just how much will it bother you when the government sets up its sugar rationing program in about three weeks, limiting the amount that may be purchased to three-quarters of a pound per person per week?

Not that anything can be done about it anyway, of course, because them's orders. But it may be some reassurance to know that such a limit won't hurt you a bit.

As a matter of fact you'd get along fine without any sugar at all, if you had to. Here's how Dr. Howard B. Peck, president of the Richland county Medical society, explains it:

Sugar is pretty much just a palate-tickler anyway, and your body will get the same value from lots of other things. For example, any of the starches—such as bread or potatoes. The body makes sugar out of them, to a large measure. So your needs are going to be taken care of, regardless, so far as the essential sugar for the body is concerned.

That's the medical viewpoint.

But there's no getting away from the fact that the public at

British Admit Loss of 31,000 Ton Craft, 500 Casualties.

LONDON—(U.P.)—The admiralty said today that the British battleship Barham was sunk on Nov. 25. Casualties were reported as more than 500.

The Barham, 31,100 tons, carried the flag of Vice Admiral H. D. Pridham Whipple, second in command of the British Mediterranean fleet. He is safe, the admiralty said.

The Barham, built in 1914, carried a complement of 1,150 officers and men. It was armed with eight 15 inch guns, lesser armament and one airplane with catapult. The admiralty disclosed that Capt. G. C. Cooke lost his life.

Outbreak Of Colds Keeps 400 School Children At Home

More than 400 Mansfield children are absent from Mansfield schools because of colds or coughs and others are going home at the rate of about 12 a day, according to a report today from Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner.

Dr. Wild said that an outbreak of colds had struck the city and that children in the grade schools had been hit the hardest by it.

The health commissioner estimated that as many as 160 pupils were absent from one school in the city alone and that other schools were having more absentees reported daily.

Dr. Wild said that there had been a mild flurry of colds and coughs as well as sore throats before Christmas but that since the holidays, the number of cases has increased in alarming proportions.

ECUADOR BALKS RIO CONFERENCE

Refuses To Sign Pacts Until Peru Agrees To Evacuate Border Troops.

(By International News Service)

RIO DE JANEIRO — Ecuador tossed a monkey wrench into the already scarred machinery of the inter-American conference today and the closing plenary session, scheduled for tonight, was postponed until tomorrow.

It was learned that the Ecuadorean delegation refused to attend the final session or to sign anything, until Peru agrees to evacuate troops and civilians from Ecuadorean territory.

The border dispute between Peru and Ecuador has been raging for years, and no solution has turned up as yet.

Ecuador contends that Peru is occupying three of her states. Peru, it is said, refuses to move.

With Bolivia, Peru, Paraguay and Uruguay already having severed diplomatic relations with the Axis nations, Brazil was expected to follow suit before close of the conference.

According to semi-official sources, Brazilian Minister Dr. Oswaldo Aranha also will announce Brazil's severance of all economic relations with the signatories to the tri-partite pact.

(Editor's note—this was the first indication that separate economic action would have to be taken by each republic. It was thought that the measure unanimously passed by the economic committee had bound all nations.)

URGES TAX

Senator Would 'Absorb' All Excess Navy Award Profits.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Chairman Harry S. Truman, (D., Mo.), of the senate defense investigating committee today urged congressional enactment of an excess profits tax to absorb 100 per cent of "unreasonable and unconscionable profits" on naval construction contracts.

Appearing as a witness before the senate naval affairs committee, Truman presented testimony received from naval officials and shipbuilders, which, he said, indicated that the navy showed little interest in saving money once contracts for vessels were awarded.

He told the committee that in some cases a bonus of $1.80 per employe was paid to builders holding cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts. In one case the bonuses were paid to a company employing $35,000 men, he added.

BERLIN—(By Official German Wireless)—(INS)—Headquarters of the German high command today claimed continued successes by Nazi submarines off the American coast had raised the toll of ships sunk to 30 since Jan. 24.

The communique asserted that "another 12 merchant ships of together 103,000 tons of gross register including six big tank ships" have been sunk.

Senate Takes Final Action Today On Price-Control Bill

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The senate was expected to take final action on the price control bill today, thus sending to the White House a measure which is expected to affect the daily life of every person in the nation.

Congressional leaders say that the bill is one of the most far-reaching measures affecting the economic life of the country ever to be enacted.

The bill has been subject to sharp controversy for six months. President Roosevelt repeatedly has called for its passage to avoid the danger of an inflationary spiral and ruinous rise in the cost of living.

A large minority of congress admittedly disliked the measure. The house completed action on the measure by approving a conference report by a vote of 288 to 119, but a motion to recommit failed by the close vote of 189 to 209.

The bill operates in this fashion:

A price administrator is created. Leon Henderson, present administrator, who serves under executive order, is expected to be appointed.

He can establish minimum prices for products. He is instructed to consider Oct. 1 as a proper base, but can depart from it, and his general instruc-

DEAD AT BIRTH

Coroner Holds Baby Found on Porch Was Not Slain.

The prematurely - born baby found dead on the porch of a Springmill street residence late Sunday had never breathed, Dr. L. B. McCullough, Richland county coroner, reported to Prosecutor Harold Lutz today.

The coroner's report eliminated the possibility that a murder charge would be filed in the case. Such a charge could have been filed if it had been determined that the baby was living at birth and had died of unnatural causes.

Police reported they had several clues and were questioning residents in the vicinity of 395 Springmill street, where the body of the baby, eight months' developed, was found wrapped in a newspaper. Police said they had found the bonfire where they believed an attempt had been made to burn the infant's body.

McSweeney Sounds Keynote For County Bond Sale Drive

Richland countians can perform a double service for their country in helping to win the war and preparing for the peace that will follow by purchasing defense bonds and stamps now and for the duration of the war, John McSweeney of Wooster, state director of the defense bond and stamp sales campaign, said yesterday in sounding the keynote for the campaign in Mansfield and Richland county.

McSweeney spoke before 35 campaign leaders at a defense rally yesterday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce. Paul M. Eliot, county campaign chairman, was in charge of the meeting.

"Let's stand behind the boys who are facing the enemy by providing them with the finest guns, the best tanks, and the warmest and best clothing we can," he urged.

McSweeney urged the county campaign workers to direct their appeal to three groups—the working men, the schools, and the farmer.

"The big investor knows government bonds are the best he can buy and you will have no trouble convincing him," he told the workers.

School children learn the meaning of loyalty and responsibility when they buy stamps and the stamps give them evidence of ownership, he said.

The government is doing everything possible to avoid forcing

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

GEN. JOHNSON:

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—One of the most encouraging things about the Pearl Harbor disaster is the calm, fair and judicial nature of the Roberts report. It contrasts most favorably with Secretary Knox's too generalized havoc-crying that our army and navy defenses there were asleep at the switch. It was nowhere near as bad as that, grievous as were the results.

Gen. Johnson.

A careful reading of it discloses that there is no reason for the American people to lose confidence in their land and naval forces. The weight of blame almost exclusively is placed on the military and naval commanders—Admiral Kimmel and Lt. General Short. The Washington headquarters of each service is pretty thoroughly absolved — as is the state department.

That doesn't seem to be altogether justified. The only timely information relayed from the intelligence bureaus of those three departments was that a Japanese raiding force was headed south through the China sea with Guam as a possible objective

When the information came that the raid included an attack in Hawaii it was too late. It was probably late because it was sent on the naval radio net-work where it has to be relayed and sometimes recoded at a loss of considerable time, as compared with a telephone call which, for all that appears, could have gotten our defensive aircraft aloft in time.

The fault at Honolulu itself was apparently army and navy routine during a training period Scouting patrols were not sent out on Sunday. The Japanese knew that, as they apparently knew everything they needed to know to do what they did.

Even after the raid, and by means of a false report, they managed to give the impression that a Jap airplane carrier had been seen headed southward with a result that what little pursuit that was possible was shunted in the wrong direction.

They could not have possibly steamed in to the surprise attack in mass as they did without being almost absolutely assured that there would be no northward patrol that Sunday morning.

After all the excuses that can be made had been given, the fact remains that a commander of any guard at the gates is personally responsible for being taken by surprise. Especially is he inexcusable unless he can show that he has taken every precaution against surprise.

Unfortunately neither of these commanders can escape responsibility for not guarding our principal outpost against our most accessible enemy.

Of course, three great outcries will arise. One will be for a single air-arm department independent of the army and navy. Another will be for a sacrificial witch-hunt to punish everybody who had any shadowy connection with this disaster, and a third will demand that in every separate joint army-navy air problem there be one supreme commander, as General Wavell is in the Indies and Chiang Kai-Shek in China.

The latter seems unanswerable and this Hawaiian fiasco goes far to prove it. Single authority, coupled with single responsibility, is a military principle as old as war itself.

The argument for a single air-force seems to be neither strengthened nor weakened Such a reorganization in the midst of action is a complex if not an impossible job.

It is to be hoped that we can keep our witch-hunts within bounds and that nothing be needlessly done to disturb public confidence in the essential soundness of our armed forces. This black episode may prove something about officers in our high command but thus far, to the whole distance that test has been possible, our troops, ships and planes have proved equal or superior to anything they have met.

Perkins Calls for Seven-Day Work Week

ASKS 24-HOUR DAY TO MEET LABOR LOSS

Secretary Wants All Machines Kept Going Regardless of Sacrifices.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Declaring that labor shortages require temporary "relaxations in accepted standards," Secretary of Labor Francis Perkins today called upon labor and management to place war production on a 24-hour, seven-day basis immediately.

Labor and management must keep every machine going "regardless of the sacrifice entailed," she said in making public a statement of policy on state hours laws which was concurred in by the war and navy departments.

War industry workers still would have "one-day-of-rest-in-seven," but industries themselves would operate every day.

"This all-out program of production requires the employment of all labor in accordance with those practices which will result in the maximum continued output of every individual," she said.

She recommended that state laws and regulations embrace the following basic principles "except where modifications may be necessary during the war period to assure maximum production."

"1. A maximum 48-hour week, since weekly hours in excess of this standard have been demonstrated to result in decreased rather than increased production when continued for any extended period of time.

"2. An eight-hour day, or the daily hours customarily worked in the particular establishment, industry or community.

"3. One-day-of-rest-in-seven, because experience has shown that this interlude has a revitalizing effect on the worker and a consequent beneficial effect on the total output.

"4. Adaption of the hours of labor and working conditions to the age and sex of the worker and the nature of the occupation.

"5. Provision should be made for adequate meal and rest periods from continuous work in order to preserve health and efficiency.

"6. Proper safeguards for health and safety go hand in hand with production efficiency and, therefore, greater care must be exercised in making plant conditions safe and healthful.

"7. Wage rates for women should be the same as for men, including the entrance rate."

REVEALS PLANS TO TIGHTEN UP CREDIT SERVICE

Lodde Tells Retailers That War Results In Need For Special Investigation.

The effect of war upon Mansfield retail methods was brought into sharp focus last night at the 17th annual dinner meeting of the Mansfield Credit Rating bureau at the Mansfield-Leland hotel with V. H. Lodde, manager, announcing a tightening up of credit privileges and special investigation of new Mansfield residents.

Lodde told more than 125 credit managers and employes attending the dinner that the bureau was instituting a defense reportorial credit system in which all new workers would be given a thorough investigation.

"We intend to go as far back as his last three places of employment," said Lodde. "We want to know why he left those places, if he was connected with radical activities, what his reputation has been in other communities, and other things affecting his credit."

The manager of the credit bureau told members that only through this rigid check could they maintain high credit ratings, especially with so large a transient population

Members also heard talks by Paul M. Eliot, chairman of the local defense bond savings committee, and Prof. Charles M. Newcomb of Ohio Wesleyan university.

Eliot asked all store managers to develop voluntary wage deduction systems through which their employes would put aside specified amounts weekly toward the purchase of defense bonds.

"It is only by buying these defense bonds and stamps," said Eliot, "that we can preserve this American way of living. The bonds are not only a good investment but are also a share in freedom."

Prof. Newcomb's topic was "How to Be Happy Though Educated" and he held the interest of his audience throughout The great part of his talk was taken up in explaining the amount of work, play, love and a religious philosophy that is needed to make people happy.

The professor warned against over-education and pointed out that education should be used to help a person make adjustments with his world and environment. He charged that the lack of such adjustment was responsible for most of today's international strife.

Lodde told members that they should be more careful than ever about their credit systems because with smaller stocks, it will be necessary to sell to persons who are most likely to pay within the prescribed credit terms.

"It is only common sense," said Lodde, "that if you have 10 refrigerators to sell and 20 customers, that you select the 10 who are most likely to pay for their purchases."

BROADWAY

Speaking For Myself.

I SOMETIMES think the art of miscasting is capable of bringing neat rewards.

As an example, take a peek into Fefe's Monte Carlo and see what the Jessels of Broadway are doing in a hitherto extremely snooty spot where formerly the Lowells spoke only to Cabots and the Cabots spoke only to Goddard.

I think we might revive the old New England ducking stool, by which gossips were punished in the early days of the nation, for the blabbers who insist on mongering "inside information" about the war. Mr. Byron Price could conduct the ducking and it might be fun to hold it in Rockefeller Plaza, or the lake in Central Park . . . I say a preview of "Kings Row" yesterday loved it.

The movies keep getting better and better at translating novels to the screen, although in this instance you do get the feeling that this is less the story of Kings Row than of the two boys Still, the trend is very encouraging

STATE RULES ON VOLUNTEERS

Those Eligible For Deferment Can't Enlist, Draft Boards Told In Mansfield.

If you're eligible for deferment from military service under draft regulations, then you can't volunteer for military service.

This was the essence of an order received today by Mansfield's three draft boards and the 327 others throughout Ohio in clarification of earlier regulations. The order, effective immediately, means that men of draft age with dependents and those employed in vital industries will not be allowed to volunteer.

The new instructions went to local draft boards because men registered for the draft who seek to volunteer for military service must secure releases from their local boards. Henceforth, no releases will be granted to applicants who are eligible to deferment from induction.

"The order merely presents a side of the selective service system that the ordinary person doesn't see," Edward S. Neese, chief state draft inspector, said at Columbus. "It practically amounts to drafting men for defense work as well as for maintaining a stable sociological system."

Neese said an order preventing trained technicians employed in vital industries from volunteering had been "because for the first few weeks after Pearl Harbor the rush to the recruiting stations was so great industries were beginning to wonder if they could maintain their labor supplies."

The order does not apply to men 18 and 19 years old nor to applicants for entrance into the army air corps as aviation cadets.

MANSFIELD'S STATE GUARDS GET RATING OF 'EXCELLENT'

Mansfield's Company F of the Ohio State Guard made an "excellent showing" as it received its first federal inspection last night, by a staff of officers headed by Lt. Col. Herbert G. Esden of Camp Perry.

Mansfield's company also won high praise from Lt. Col Esden for its thorough bayonet course.

"That's the first complete bayonet course I've seen in my tour," remarked Esden. "It's very good."

He also complimented the state guard unit on its neat appearance, and especially upon the new overseas caps worn by the men. These were recently purchased to replace the awkward campaign hats worn previously.

Inspection of the guard was held at 7:30 p. m. after a dinner served for the men, at which inspecting officers were the guests of Capt. Glenn Bierly, company commander.

Inspection began with the men divided into platoons of 24 each standing at attention on the armory floor. Esden walked along the lines having each man present his gun for inspection and then he asked the owner a question on military procdure, as learned from company textbooks and instructions.

The company presented the manual of arms by squads of 12 men each. This part of the drill consisted of proper presentation and stacking of arms in a pyramid.

Then came the bayonet drill, which Esden commended as being the most complete and best he had seen on his tour of inspection. For this, the men lined up at one end of the armory by their stacked guns and at the given command charged at wooden dummies.

Riot formation was demonstrated by squads of men who charged an imaginary enemy at the opposite end of the armory, in a running wedge formation.

Concluding with a parade, the unit of 50 men, quickly formed into platoons to the adjutant's call blown on the bugle. Then the entire assemblage stood at attention as the "Star Spangled Banner" played from a radio-phonograph, after the call to colors had been blown. After the command had been given back to Capt. Bierly, the entire company passed in review before Esden.

Assisting in the inspection were Col E. C. Wolfe, and Lt. Col. C. E. Rowe of Akron.

SUES RAILROAD

Shelby Resident Asks $25,000 For Injury To Hand.

Wilmuth T. Corwin, Shelby resident, filed suit against the New York Central Railroad in common pleas court today asking $25,000 damages for permanent injuries to his right hand as the result of an accident at Mt. Vernon, Feb. 7, 1940.

In his petition Corwin stated that he was employed as a telegrapher for the New York Central railroad at Mt. Vernon when the accident happened. The plaintiff stated that when he undertook to throw a lever on a switch a portion of the device stuck and that when it gave way his right hand was forced against the lever with such violence that the hand was severely injured.

Corwin alleged, according to the petition, that the accident was caused by the carelessness and negligence of the railroad. He further stated that he was now only able to work with great pain because of the accident.

'May I Use Your Bike Today, Dad?' New Ohio War Cry

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Well, junior, it appears that you might have to do without that new bicycle for a while. But maybe pop will let you ride his.

Ohioans are flocking to bicycles to save automobile tires, a survey by the Associated Press showed today, and most of the purchases are for adults.

A Cleveland dealer reported he had made numerous sales to husbands and wives. Another said few bikes were available for juveniles and he expected no additional stocks soon.

Leading cycle and sporting goods stores throughout the state reported January sales of bicycles as much as 500 per cent heavier than in the same month last year. Without exception, dealers were concerned about their inability to replenish their stock because of production restrictions.

A new "victory" model bike, stripped of chrome trimming and gadgets, was expected to reach the market about April 1, the normal beginning of the bicycle season.

DOUGHBOYS IN EUROPE WANT QUICK ACTION

Man Anti-Aircraft Guns as Commanders Warn of Plane Attacks.

go, and to them their station as the first Americans in the European war zone in this second World war was only a stepping stone to action.

Already, thousands of letters were on the way home from the infantrymen, artillerymen, engineers, medical corps men and others who arrived at a northern Irish port yesterday and trudging out along the country roads in the moonlight, spread out in camps already prepared by the British army and ate their first meal ashore—vegetable soup, stew, rice, date pudding, coffee, bread and margarine.

Fresh from their middle western homes and the maneuver battlegrounds of Louisiana and the Carolinas, the sons of the men who had fought in France and Belgium, talked of little but the possible fields of action during the short days on deck and the long nights behind blacked-out portholes in their voyage across the sea.

Their talk, as I heard it, showed that they did not care where they were going as long as they got in action. They didn't know where they were until they arrived.

They were getting acclimatized today in this island which lies 400 miles from the German guns along the Dover strait and 500 miles air line from Germany itself.

Tired but glad to be ashore, the Yanks marched singing to their camps. Most of them threw themselves on the beds already made for them, and took a rest before dinner.

After dinner they played cards, made friends with the girls in the army canteens, and began asking about the prospects for the immediate future.

"Is it this wet all the time?" "What's all this stuff about rationing?" "What's this about a cigaret shortage?" "Can you get plenty of whisky?" "Where are the girls?"—those and other questions were asked everyone they talked to.

The United States navy, bringing this little army across 3,000 miles of submarine-infested ocean, had lived up to its tradition of never having lost a troop transport.

When Ireland was sighted, a shout of praise went up for the skipper and his officers and crew, and the navy men, in turn, warmly praised the conduct of the army men during the trying days and nights aboard ship.

The troops were conscious all the time that they were in the war and that they were the vanguard of the AEF in a new war, ready to carry on President Roosevelt's promise to take the battle to the enemy wherever he could be hit.

Most of the Yanks had never seen the ocean before, and when the skyline faded outside of an eastern United States port on their departure and the ship gave its first roll many had an empty feeling. A few of the 42 army nurses of the new AEF shed a tear for boy friends they had left behind.

Soon the first shock of realizing they were bobbing on top of a couple of miles of water was over, and from the forward well deck came "Give My Regards to Broadway," accompanied by an Alabaman with a harmonica.

The British were doing all they could in the food line, but it was not enough to men from the middle west who had their own ideas of both food and cooking.

"We have brought our best cooks from all parts of the British Isles," a British officer said. "Your men will get the best food possible and a higher scale ration while they get settled. The best our army can supply is theirs."

The soup, stew and dessert for the first dinner was supposed to be a treat, though the men did not know it.

British soldiers, for the same meal, would not have got the soup or the desert.

British soldiers have one heavy meal and three light meals a day; the Americans two heavy and one light one.

Chaney Heads U. S. Forces In Britain

A NORTH IRLAND PORT—(AP)—Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney, rated both as a combat pilot and a combat observer by the U. S. Air Corps, has been made commanding general of the United States army forces in the British Isles, it was officially announced today.

General Chaney's chief of staff is Brig. Gen. Charles L. Bolte. Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, who arrived here with several thousand United States army troops yesterday, is the commanding general of American forces in Northern Ireland.

The announcement said the first United States combat troops to arrive in the European combat zone could be regarded as the vanguard of others to take up stations in the British Isles.

warned parents to protect themselves and their children from colds as much as possible. He advised "colds shots" for immunization against cold or to build up resistance to them, proper rest, sufficient sleep, cleanliness, and the use of vitamins A and D which help build up resistance.

If you already have a cold, Dr. West advises going to bed or at least be quiet, avoid exertion, have a light diet, drink plenty of water, keep warm and avoid drafts, and to call a doctor if your condition grows worse.

"Struggling against a cold and ignoring any danger signals successfully may be the sign of a strong body," said Dr. Wild, "but in many cases it is also the sign of a weak mind. Be sensible in avoiding colds."

Meanwhile Dr. Wild reported that three diphtheria cases in one family in the north part of the county had been reported today. These cases bring the total for the month to date to five. Approximately 25 cases were reported in 1941, most of them during the latter months. The commissioner asked all parents to have their children immunized against diphtheria germs.

U. S. FORCES SCORE IN AIR NEAR MANILA

Enemy Planes Shot Down By Defenders, Torpedo Boats Tackle Dive Bombers.

communiques the navy said the tiny craft had sunk two 5,000-ton enemy ships in Subic bay, while the army today disclosed that similar craft had fought off Japanese dive bombers.

The torpedo boats, capable of speeds up to 70 knots, carry four torpedoes and are armed with four 50 caliber machine guns to repel aerial attacks. These anti-aircraft guns are in two turrets, two guns per turret and point skyward much as two fingers held up in the "V for victory" salute. They have a wide circular and vertical range as a result

Text of the army's 79th communique follows:

"Philippine theater—There was practically no ground fighting on the Batan peninsula during the past 24 hours.

"Two of Gen. MacArthur's P-40 airplanes engaged in a thrilling encounter with three Japanese dive bombers. Two of the enemy planes were shot down and the third disabled. Neither of our planes was injured.

"Gen MacArthur also reported an unusual combat which occurred two days ago between two of his motor torpedo boats and a formation of enemy dive bombers.

"When the officers commanding the torpedo boats observed two waves of enemy bombers approaching they might easily have sought cover. Instead they increased their speed, placing themselves directly in the line of flight of the second wave, and engaged the planes.

"The fire from the boats dispersed the hostile aircraft. Three enemy planes were hit and when last observed were sinking and losing altitude rapidly. Officers and men of the crews of these boats were cited by Gen. MacArthur for gallantry.

Japanese Make New Landing In Malaya

SINGAPORE— (U.P.) —Japanese forces made a new landing under heavy British air bombardment on Malaya's east coast in the vicinity of the strategic town of Mersing, near which a battle is raging about 50 miles from Singapore, a communique announced today.

British troops battled the Japanese north of Jem Luang, near a river mouth eight miles south of Mersing, the communique said. (This indicated possible loss of Mersing.)

The landing had been preceded by an attack of British bombers on Japanese warships off Endau, about 25 miles north of Mersing, where a cruiser was hit and 12 hits were scored on a troop transport. Twelve Japanese planes were shot down.

(The British made elaborate precautions to defend Mersing, their last stronghold of any importance on the Malayan east coast. An important road leads westward across the peninsula from Mersing.)

(If the Japanese hold Mersing, their Malayan front would now extend slightly southward toward Jem Luang, then almost due west toward the mid-peninsula towns of Kluang and Ayer Hitam, and from there to a point south of Batu Pahat on the west coast.

(The average distance of this line from Singapore island is about 50 miles.)

The announcement said 12 Japanese planes had been shot down.

Endau is approximately 82 miles from Singapore. The Japanese merchant ships and naval units had been sighted just north of that coastal town.

The British swooped down on the Japanese convoy, as Japanese bombers twice raided Singapore.

Australian Planes Hit Three Jap Ships

MELBOURNE, Australia—(U.P.)—Australian Royal Air Force planes, striking at a big Japanese invasion fleet in Rabul harbor in the Bismarck islands, damaged three ships in a raid during the night, an air force communique said today.

Australian militiamen, including bushmen specially trained in guerrilla fighting, were reported fighting Japanese landing forces estimated to total 40,000 in the Rabaul area, 800 miles northeast of Australia.

Unofficial reports were received that the Japanese were already operating planes from a base or bases in New Britain island, of which Rabaul is the chief town, and it was believed the Australian planes which went to the support of the heavily outnumbered defense forces had bombed fields which the enemy could use.

McSweeney Sounds Keynote For County Bond Sale Drive

anybody to buy bonds, McSweeney pointed out. There are no quotas nor time limits, he added.

He said the state campaign officials were advising against compulsory payroll deductions for any plant or organization and he asked industries and schools not to post lists of stamp and bond purchasers or conduct contests.

He added, however, that it is a good plan for factories, offices, and schools to try for 100 per cent membership in the bond and stamp campaign, obtaining the promise of every member or pupil to buy at least a few stamps and one or more bonds.

The campaigners' slogan will be: "Sell a Share in America to Every Ohio Income Earner."

County officials and employes had worked out a plan today whereby all of them will buy stamps at the county treasurer's office twice monthly when they cash their pay checks. No one will be asked to purchase any specific amount, but officials will check their workers, to learn if all of them have joined in the plan.

In a number of industrial plants and business organizations in the city, workers are requesting that a certain percentage of their earnings be deducted each week for the purchase of bonds which will be delivered to them as soon as their contributions are sufficient to buy them.

Mansfield officials of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph company announced today that they will immediately place defense savings stamps on sale at their offices here. Offices of the same firms will sell stamps in other cities.

SUGAR'S ONLY PALATE-TICKLER

You Can Get Along Nicely Without It and Possibly Be Healthier.

large has an over-developed sweet tooth. It must have, because the 1941 consumption was a pound and a half per week per person.

So, whether they need it or not, folks still like their sugar to satisfy their craving for sweets. There's an answer for that, too. It comes from Mrs. W. B. Ford, chairman of the Richland county Nutrition Council for Defense.

"That three quarters of a pound of sugar a week can be stretched a long way," she says. "And there's lots of other things we can do. We can eat plenty of fresh and dried fruits, which have high natural sugar content. We can use honey as a substitute—put it on cereals, use it in baking recipes. As far as food value is concerned, one pound of honey is equivalent to 1481 calories, as compared with 1815 calories for a pound of sugar.

"We can use corn syrup, in sauces, candies, cakes. It's very digestible, and for that reason is used in many baby foods. Old fashioned molasses makes mighty palatable cookies and cakes, and it's one of the richest sources of iron. As far as that's concerned, we might even be healthier when this is all over."

At Washington today, Price Administrator Leon Henderson said:

"I can't stress too strongly that every housewife should begin now to reduce consumption of sugar in her home. Those who have hoards of sugar should stop buying and start using up their stock since they will not be permitted under the plan to get more sugar until their supplies have been reduced to normal proportions.

"This is an opportunity for everyone to make a personal contribution to the war. The army and navy need alcohol derived from sugar to make smokeless powder. Saving on sugar means powder for our soldiers and sailors."

Maybe because little girls are made of "sugar and spice and everything nice," the fair sex is more inclined than the male to pass up sugar in its coffee even when there's plenty available. The more likely reason is that sugar is apt to be fattening.

This restriction on sugar might be a point on that business of milady's weight, particularly if the number of girdles is cut down. (The War Production Board first said girdles were out, then later amended its statement, announcing that a limited amount of rubber would go into girdle manufacture.)

Another angle on the matter of poundage is the likelihood that grocers will cut down to a great extent in the number of deliveries they will make. Instead of calling two or three times a day, and having the grocery boy deliver the groceries, the housewife will be going after 'em herself. And walking does help keep the weight down.

The 56 stores in the Independent Grocers' Institute of Mansfield already have reduced the number of their deliveries, and will reduce them even further. These stores also have ordered a large supply of baskets, which the shopper can use for a 10-cent deposit, and which make it lots easier to carry groceries if you're walking.

Actual rationing of sugar will start in Mansfield and the rest of Ohio about Feb 15 It will be handled by the same board which now handles tire rationing, and which shortly will take over the job of rationing new cars, and material for retreading tires. The Mansfield board is made up of James Bailey, a retired business man, chairman, Fred B. Wolff, hotel proprietor, and Harold D. Burns, attorney.

Getting back to this matter of 12 ounces of sugar, for you, for me, and for the next fellow. Home Economist Kit Rhoads went to work with a set of precise scales to learn just how much sugar there really is in three-quarters of a pound. She came up with the disclosure that there are six teaspoons full to an ounce of sugar. So with 12 ounces of sugar available per week for each of us (or 72 teaspoonsful), that means that we'll each have 10.18 teaspoonsful every day.

So what are we worrying about anyway?

CHURCHILL ASKS COMMONS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Declares Allied Might and Unity Grows, Says More U. S. Troops Coming.

greeted his one hour and 24 minute accounting left no doubt how the house of commons will vote when it finally puts the question of confidence to a test.

"I am the man that parliament and the nation have got to blame for the general way in which they were served," the prime minister told the house of commons in a voice made husky by a heavy cold as he summed up Britain's war fortunes in his first review since visiting the United States.

"And," he added, "I cannot serve them effectively unless, in spite of all that has gone wrong and is going to go wrong, I have their trust and their faithful aid."

However, not all that Churchill reported was of British reverses or of dark prospects for the future.

In Libya, he said, an imperial army outnumbered two-to-one by General Erwin Rommel's German-Italian forces has rewon Cirenaica.

Now, he added, Britain's job is to hold reconquered Cirenaica.

He called Britain's munitions output "gigantic" with tank production doubled in the last six months and small arms output more than doubled.

Britain's colume of planes is steadily rising, he said, and they are larger and better.

The prime minister said he had many discussions in Washington with President Roosevelt on British-American war direction and that "in order to wage war effectively against Japan" they had agreed that Roosevelt "propose the establishment of a Pacific council in Washington or London to include representatives of Australia and New Zealand as well as Britain and the Netherlands."

Australia wants and New Zealand prefers Washington as the meeting place, Churchill said, but no decision has been reached yet whether it will be there or London.

"We shall presently regain naval command of the Pacific and begin to establish effective superiority in the air," the prime minister predicted.

He pledged that the Malay peninsula and Singapore would be defended to the last inch.

The prime minister said he doubted that Japan would attempt an invasion of Australia which he described as "a very ambitious overseas operation in the precarious and certainly limited time before the British and American navies regain, as they must regain, ultimate command of the Pacific."

"We are taking many measures with the United States to increase the security of Australia and New Zealand and are sending reinforcements, arms and equipment by the best routes."

Turning to forces of the United States, the prime minister said:

"United States fighter and bomber squadrons will take part in the defense of these isles and their bombers will attack Germany."

"We must also concert together in close collaboration with Stalin and Chiang Kai-Shek," he said.

"There is no question of regarding the Pacific war as a secondary operation," Churchill asserted.

"The United States navy is linked in the most intimate union with the admiralty, both in the Atlantic and the Pacific."

ANNOUNCE BIG MUNITIONS POOL

Roosevelt and Churchill Set Up Boards To Merge All War Resources.

bined war materials board, munitions assignments board and combined shipping adjustment board—will constitute a supreme supply command.

Members of the boards were not named in the announcement. Representation will be confined to British and American members. The White House said the board members would confer with representatives of the Soviet Union, China and such others of the 26 united nations as necessary "to attain common purposes."

The White House description of the three boards indicated that the munitions unit would be the most important.

"The entire munition resources of Great Britain and the United States will be deemed to be in a common pool, about which the fullest information will be interchanged," the announcement said.

Congressmen Rebuke Incompetence

WHATEVER further action is taken in the cases of Admiral Kimmel and Lieut. General Short, following disclosures of an investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster, will be a matter for decision by Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Navy Knox, in conjunction with President Roosevelt as commander in chief of America's armed forces.

Lack of readiness at Pearl Harbor to meet the unexpected Japanese onslaught involved far more than failure of the commanding officers to recognize the seriousness of the situation. Report of the Roberts commission revealed the absence of co-ordination of army, navy and air branches of United States military forces, which, if not quickly corrected, might easily lead to a greater catastrophe than that which occurred at Pearl Harbor on Sunday morning, December 7.

It appears, from the report, that Admiral Kimmel and Lieut. General Short acted independently in considering warnings sent to them from Washington—one as commander of the navy and the other as commander of the army. Too much should not be said in criticism of this course, as it was common peace-time procedure—and, so far as these two men could see, they were operating under peacetime conditions in the Hawaiian area, with appeasement negotiations proceeding in Washington even after bombs were being dropped on Pearl Harbor ships and airdromes.

Admiral Kimmel and Lieut General Short were immediately relieved of their commands in Hawaii, pending investigation, and further action will await decision by their respective departments.

Closely associated with reception of the Roberts commission's report, also, was the reaction in congress, which was described as "a furore of rare bitterness," with angry demands for "expulsion of any incompetents holding responsible positions in the war effort and for court martial of those responsible for the debacle of Pearl Harbor."

This scathing rebuke of incompetence, it should be recalled, comes from a congress that came within a single vote of defeating a measure to extend the term of selectees for military training; refused an appropriation to fortify Guam because such action would offend Japan; made no move to prevent the wave of strikes that seriously retarded armament production all through last year and is now laggardly passing a price control bill which is especially designed to meet the demands of two large voting blocs.

It is charged that Admiral Kimmel and Lieut. General Short, in command at Pearl Harbor last December 7, and theretofore, "failed properly to evaluate the seriousness of the situation," and that they committed "errors of judgment."

Theirs was a tremendous responsibility and the story that came out of Honolulu on that fateful first Sunday in December might have been quite different had these commanders "properly evaluated the seriousness of the situation"—just as American preparedness might now be much further advanced if politics-playing congressmen; strike-calling labor leaders; isolationist-promoting Wheelers, Nyes and Lindberghs; commission-grabbing Charley Wests, and unscrupulous profiteers on defense contracts, had not also "failed properly to evaluate the seriousness of the situation."

But that is in the past. It is too late to correct the mistakes of last year—or of last month. But there is still time to avoid making more mistakes of a kind that good judgment can guard against—and it is upon what is yet to be done, rather than what has already been done, that dependence must be placed to win the war.

Meanwhile congressmen will do well to avoid popularizing an idea that "expulsion of incompetents" would be proper procedure, as this might too seriously deplete their own ranks before they complete their grab of pensions for themselves.

Dimes That Work Through the Year

DR. JOHN TOOMEY of Cleveland City hospital has long been interested in research into the cause and cure of infantile paralysis. Suspecting that it was carried by the housefly, he made last year, with the aid of a group of students, experiments which seem definitely to prove his belief true. The germ is carried by the housefly, the blue bottle fly and some other insects. Eating the skins of fruits is one means by which the transfer is made from fly to intestinal tract. Prevention of the disease, at least when it comes by this route, is clear. Keep home and premises clean and screened. Wash all fruits carefully and thoroughly before eating, peel them if possible.

The month of August, when the flies are most numerous, and when many fruits are ripening and tempting to flies and people both, is the time when epidemic possibilities of the polio are at their height.

The dimes and dollars being contributed this week make it possible to continue research work and provide treatment for many victims of infantile paralysis. Without an appropriation from the fund built up by the dimes of January, the August experiments could not be performed.

Dimes help find both cause and cure. They give stricken children a chance at life and movement.

Excessive Speed Destroys Tires

EXCEPT for an intoxicated visiting motorist, who attempted to drive along a street that wasn't there, and was struck by a Pennsylvania train, nothing unusual entered into week-end traffic accidents in the Mansfield area, and injuries were minor.

It is also worthy of note that the five persons arrested by highway patrolmen for speeding on Route 42 were all from out of the city, and that there was only one local arrest for excessive speed—58 miles an hour on West Sixth street being the charge made by police.

While 50 miles an hour is still the legal limit on Ohio highways—with 35, 25 and 20 as the maximum for prescribed zones in municipalities—an effort is being made to secure voluntary conformity to a 40-mile limit for all driving outside of cities, so as to conserve cars, tires and gasoline.

The 40-mile proposal is intended as no more than an appeal to common sense, in an effort to insure longer life for motor vehicle equipment that must be made to last until the war has been won.

Rather than arbitrarily fixing a speed limit at 40 miles an hour, it is believed that there will be a quite general public response to a well-conducted and persistently publicized campaign to secure co-operation of motorists in driving at reasonable speed—leaving the few violators to be dealt with by law enforcement authorities, as at present.

Suspect Much Sugar Is Hoarded

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The national capital was probably the first city in the land to get an ache in its sweet tooth.

No sooner had Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard come out with his surprise statement that there exists a potential shortage of sugar than Washington housewives discovered buying restrictions at most of their grocery stores. A howl went up immediately charging the grocery men with hoarding, profiteering, etc.

BECAUSE this experience is likely to be repeated throughout the land, it is worth recording. Secretary Wickard's nation-wide announcement anticipated the local situation by only a few hours. Perhaps that's why he made it.

There already were restrictions on sugar. These were to prevent hoarding, principally by dealers and wholesalers. Since there was an ample surplus and no definite likelihood of curtailment of supply, it had not been considered necessary even to warn consumers of an impending shortage. The government merely allocated wholesale supplies on a basis of 1940 consumption.

That's where Washington's sugar bowl developed a bad leak for the capital's population has mushroomed since 1940. Estimates on the increase run all the way from one to two-thirds. Yet Washington merchants, under the OPM allotment, could get only the same amount of sugar they had sold in 1940.

HOUSEWIVES, calling their favorite grocery for a 10, 50- or 100-pound sack of sugar, discovered they could get only two pounds, or maybe five. Those who customarily shopped about were even more startled when they couldn't get any sugar at all.

"We can't sell sugar to strangers," the clerks explained. Candy and soft drink manufacturers were hard hit and in isolated cases, retailers were unable to supply the demand for these products.

What's back of all this? Probably hoarding. The United States has an average annual consumption of 6,600,000 tons of sugar. In 1940, this stepped up to 6,900,000 tons. No one considered the increase serious and there still was a generous surplus. Then in 1941, consumption jumped 1,000,000 tons over 1940 and by the end of the year, surplus stocks were so low they wouldn't have fed a little cloud of flies until spring.

THE Philippine source is shut off and the Hawaiian source probably cut through lack of shipping. Is it any wonder that officials are alarmed?

Agriculture officials consider it pretty likely that that extra million tons purchased last year is stored in the warehouses of dealers with a speculative itch or in the attics of consumers with a yen to look out for their own future, regardless of what happens to the rest of the country.

BUT this is certain, according to Wickard: There won't be enough sugar this year to fill the old sugar bowl as full as in recent years. Therefore, some conservation, really serious conservation, on the part of the public will be necessary.

This can be done by eliminating waste, using less sugar and more sugar substitutes, such as honey and sorghum.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Jan. 27, 1922.

Organization of I. O. O. F. Military band was completed, with Charles Seybold elected as president.

Luther Leiter, 75, pioneer resident of Richland county, died at his home north of Mansfield.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams, 223 East Second street.

Philip Schmutzler bought Taylor property, 25-27 Arthur avenue.

Miss Freda Schettler passed state examination for registered nurses.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Swisher, South Main street, were surprised by friends on 35th wedding anniversary.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Wednesday, Jan. 27, 1937.

Army high command ordered evacuation of entire Mississippi valley because of flood threat.

Three truckloads of donations and 1,100 loaves of bread were sent to the southern Ohio flood area from this city.

Miss Emma McCoy, a former Mansfield resident, died at her home in Akron.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Them, 336 First avenue.

Richard "Red" Skelton was appearing as master of ceremonies with "Riviera Follies" at Palace theater, Cleveland.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On Jan. 27, 1880, Thomas Alva Edison was granted a patent for an incandescent lamp. Edison spent more than $40,000 in fruitless experiments before he succeeded in making an incandescent lamp in which a loop of carbonized cotton thread glowed in a vacuum for over 40 hours.

Make Balance Good

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IN TROUBLE? Some sudden, bitter blow? Lost your job . . . or your reputation . . . or, cruelest of all, the one you loved? And you don't know how you can bear it? For it's so much worse than you thought it would be? You weren't prepared.

Oh, of course, you'd seen plenty of trouble. Seen it come to other people. Tried to imagine how it would feel if it came to you. But you never imagined—this! For it isn't just the pain and shock—you expected that. It's something that demoralizes you worse than any pain. It's that feeling that your usefulness is over—that you're out of the game—that the other fellow is holding all the face cards—

And what's the sense of it? That's the thing that bites deepest . . . the futility of it all. If only you could turn your suffering to some account. But you can't. For what's life worth when you're stripped and broken?

I know. I've asked that, too, stranger. I've had to look at mothers with living babies—knowing I'd never be a mother any more. . . . If anything can smash a life, that will. So I've earned the right to tell you this, straight—Life's still worth plenty to those who have gone through the mill . . . it's worth as much, if not more, than it is to untroubled folk, if you have the grit to go after its values.

Once I read these lovely lines by Whittier:

"For one shall grasp and one resign,
"One drink life's rue and one its wine,
"And God shall make the balance Good."

That's true—though it takes most of us many a heartbreak to discover it. And it's true, not in a bleak, colorless sense—nor at some distant, heavenly time. It is true, here and now . . . grief can make your life richer, stronger, warmer, as surely as gladness. God can make the balance good.

But remember this — He isn't going to hand you all this enrichment automatically, as a consolation prize. People don't get rewarded, by either God or man, just because they've had a run of bad luck. Many of us think we should. We feel that we deserve special exemption and consideration merely because our hearts are broken and should receive at least 8 per cent interest on every tear.

But things don't work out that way. Whether you're glad or sad, you only win what you work for. You can build as great a life on sadness as you can on gladness—but only if you're willing.

And that willingness is the worst part of the battle. It is hard to put off grief . . . one comes to cling to it like a cloak. But if you're willing to live again, if you're willing to live your tear-washed eyes for a wider sight, and your pain-ploughed heart for a richer harvest—God will surely make the balance good, my friend.

Murray and Hillman Get Together As Result of Lewis' Blitz Tactics

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Two very significant long-distance telephone calls preceded the torpedoing of John L. Lewis's blitz AFL-CIO peace maneuver.

The first call was from CIO President Phil Murray in New York to war labor chief Sidney Hillman in Washington. Murray read Hillman the letter he had drafted slapping down Lewis and informing him that he (Murray) and not Lewis was boss of the CIO.

Murray read Hillman the letter for his approval and suggestions.

This was the first time in more than a year that Murray had sought out Hillman's counsel and support. Only a few weeks before, Murray had taken an indirect swipe at Hillman by urging the president to place all war labor activities in the labor department. For months mutual friends of the two leaders had labored unsuccessfully to establish a basis of cordial working relations between them.

By one stroke Lewis accomplished what a score of others, including the White House, had been unable to do.

The second long distance call was from the president in Washington to Murray in New York. This call followed the publication of the letter Murray read to Hillman.

The president warmly congratulated Murray and assured him of complete backing. Roosevelt also invited Murray to confer with him at his earliest convenience. Murray said he would come to the White House two days later.

Fight On Lewis.

AT THIS conference, Murray stated that notice had been served on top CIO officers who are on the United Mine Workers payroll that if they didn't back Lewis' scheme, they would be axed.

The officials mentioned by Murray were himself, vice president of the UMW as well as president of the CIO; Tom Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the UMW as well as vice president of the CIO; and Van Bittner, district president of the UMW and acting head of the steel workers organizing committee.

Murray indicated that if such strong-arm tactics were attempted he was ready to go over Lewis's head and take the fight directly to the UMW rank-and-file.

"Mr. President," Murray said earnestly, "I ardently favor peace between the CIO and the AFL. Also, the last thing I want is dissension between myself and any man in the labor movement. But we are a democratic people and we insist on solving our problems in an orderly and democratic manner. No man is big enough to tell the American worker what he should do and how he should do it."

Roosevelt assured Murray he was behind him "to the hilt." "You are in the right, Phil," he said, "and you can't lose because labor won't let you down in this kind of a fight."

Pipe Down.

REAR Admiral Emory S. (Jerry) Land, peppery chief of the U. S. maritime commission, has adopted a unique scheme to prevent leaks of military information in his agency.

Land sent a memorandum to his staff as follows:

"Confucius' mother said to Confucius—

"Confucius, you talk too — — much!

"At times like these the foregoing philosophy should be applied by each individual in the maritime commission.

"When discussing commission business, please keep it in mind."

Note—Knowing their boss' flair for salty language, Maritime workers had no trouble figuring out what the double blank in the memo stood for.

Army Fatheadedness.

THE question of army morale has vanished like last summer's roses. Yet many soldiers still have plenty of grounds for gripes. Take the case of Sergeant Clark Cook of Camp Langdon, New Hampshire.

A six-footer, weighing 175 pounds, Clark, a crack soldier, aspired to be an officer. He applied for admission to an officers' training camp and his commander approved it. But at the Corps Area headquarters in Boston, Cook was rejected.

The stated reason was "obesity." Cook thought he knew there wasn't a pound of excess flesh on him. So he started asking questions.

In the end he discovered that a clerk in the post hospital where Cook took his physical examination, had entered his height as 60 inches instead of 72 inches. This made him 5 feet tall, weighing 175 pounds—too fat to be an officer.

The application was returned to Boston for correction, but the Corps Area headquarters said it was against regulations to change the record.

So Cook is still a sergeant, waiting for another chance to apply for officer's training.

Merry-Go-Round.

THE TRUMAN committee's scathing report blasted OPM and the other war agencies unsparingly, but there was one that got a hearty pat on the back. This was the maritime commission, which the committee commended for doing a "good job" in expanding shipyard facilities. Said the committee's report, "It is fortunate, indeed, that the maritime commission's shipbuilding program was well advanced prior to the beginning of the defense program"....In contrast to other congressmen who joined the armed services and are demanding their $10,000 congressional pay, Texas' young Representative Lyndon Johnson had himself taken off the congressional payroll the day he went on active duty—three days after Pearl Harbor. An officer in the naval reserve, Johnson asked for active duty on Dec. 8 and on Dec. 10 donned the uniform. He is living on his navy pay.

When the full story is told of the organization of the crack American volunteer group of fliers, who have been shooting Jap planes out of the air in China, one man who will be given a lot of credit is Lauchlin Currie, little-known White House secretary. Currie was the personal emissary that Roosevelt sent to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek early last year. Since then he has been directing U. S. aid to China...As alien property custodian, able Leo Crowley will have charge of between seven and eight billion dollars worth of foreign assets. The only injunction the president gave Crowley when appointing him was, "I put you in charge of this job, Leo, because I knew you would see to it that there will be no scandals. We don't want a repetition of the sordid story of the Harding regime."

More and more the Capital resembles an armed camp: A company of soldiers has been put in the basement of the treasury department by Henry Morgenthau ...with bayonets fixed, soldiers march in the muddy grass around war and navy buildings...Business men on errands in Washington must allow ten per cent more time merely to gain admission to buildings....Argentine Minister Garcia Arias stands in line to be admitted to the munitions building...A newspaper man, leaving munitions building, is stopped by a guard, who confiscates the newspaper under his arm, lest it conceal smuggled documents.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There are some mighty odd characters operating in and around Broadway, and one of them is the subject of this essay.

We'll call him Joe. He has more gall and less pride than any man I know, yet he would be genuinely distressed if you told him so.

He doesn't think of himself as a chiseler at all. He's good looking in a dumb sort of way. He spends his life asking favors, and I will have to admit he would as willingly grant a favor if it lay in his power to do it, though it seldom does.

Joe is 30 or thereabouts and he has a head of curly, black, seldom cut hair. He has eyes that laugh at you and at himself, and this is a paradox, for if ever a bloke was consumed with self pity, it is our hero.

Recently he repeated a little trick that has worked well for him in the past, and it will work for him again in the future. I have no doubt.

It was like this. Several weeks ago Joe found himself in a financial hole. He was in what turned out to be a pleasure resort, or a spa, yet he didn't call it that when he mentioned his whereabouts to his friends. He sat down and wrote about 35 or 40 letters, and they all said the same thing. He wrote to everybody he could think of. He searched his memory for people he knew to address on the chiseled stationary.

THIS, in essence, was the text of all his many letters:

"Dear Joe, or Pete, or Pal—I've been flat on my back for six weeks with a serious sinus ailment and as a result I've run up quite a bill. It's taken every cent I have, but I believe I could pull myself even with the world again if you would advance me $20 for a couple of weeks. I can't leave until this bill is paid, but I'll have some money of my own by the 20th of the month, and I'll shoot it back to you before you have time to miss it."

In effect that was Joe's note to 35 or 40 different people. Of this number a surprising quota sent Joe the $20. He collected, with infinite satisfaction, about $250 in this manner, paid a minor hotel bill, moved on to brighter scenes, and enjoyed himself until this dough ran out.

OF COURSE, when the 20th of the month came around Joe didn't come into that money of his own. There wasn't any money for him to come into. He was only kidding about that. He had to say something, didn't he?

Well, this has happened before, and it will happen again. I imagine in his secret heart Joe thinks some day he'll repay all those twenties. I imagine, for a time at least, he really believes he deserved those twenties, and I think it never occurs to him that he is pulling a fast one on people who, under happier circumstances, would be glad to be his friends.

Why hasn't somebody poked Joe on the nose? I don't know. Except this. He's one of those guys you don't poke. There's something about him. It would seem a crime to poke Joe. He's no midget. He would defend himself, I have no doubt. It is simply his gift that he doesn't inspire anger in those whose tolerance he abuses. You know the type. There's one in every town. Cheerful, obligingly, good natured—and not worth a tinker's damn.

A Farmer's Diary

Frozen Pipes

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE WATER pipe froze during the cold weather. It connects our spring with the kitchen sink, extending 20 feet or so beyond the cellar wall—but never until this year did it freeze, perhaps because snow covered the ground during other zero times, and helped to insulate it.

Be that as it may, I worked all day on the first warmer day with blow torch and chemicals first—then with pick and shovel, and when night came was forced to quit with the job unfinished.

There is something maddening about a frozen pipe. I suppose frozen pipes contribute more than any other single thing to the average man's great respect for plumbers. But with seven in the family and wash day coming on, the thought of toting all the water up a long flight of steps from the spring and then toting waste water out again was enough to arouse that plumber instinct I possess. And being Dutch, the harder frozen the problem seemed to be, the more determined I was to thaw it.

The old blow torch had not been used for quite a while. I tinkered with it until it finally began to spout blue flame—musing aloud, meanwhile, upon the advisability of a man keeping his machine tools filled and burning. Then I tried it out down cellar, carefully, lest I melt the pipes or burn the house down. I kept calling up through the hot air register for my wife to "try the pump—maybe it'll go now." She did, but it didn't, and pretty soon she said I was interrupting her too often and didn't I know she had other things to do and it shouldn't take two grown people's time to merely thaw a pipe.

So I went off alone and made things red hot but didn't feaze it. So I took the pick and began to dig outside in the hard frozen ground where the pipe was buried two feet at the upper end. It was frozen all right. It turned white with frost when exposed to the air.

I said to myself that a man should be glad he was able to work and gradually got it uncovered and thawed to within a few inches of the cellar wall—yet still it stubbornly remained clogged. Darkness found me dog tired, with my flash light battery worn out and with the necessity of carrying up a pail of water when I went in for supper.

That night it was rainy and warmer. Listening to the heavy rain upon the roof, I was glad I had dug it up, anyhow. It might have stayed frozen underground all winter.

Stiffly, next morning, on getting up, I tried the stubborn pump—it being my habit to put the kettle on when I make the kitchen fire. The water came. It worked. We are back where we used to be—and that, in these troublous times, is something!

DEFENSE GROUP PLANS TO HOLD MASS MEETING

Ashland County Council To Convene at College Sunday Night.

ASHLAND — Plans have been made by the Ashland County Defense Council for a county-wide mass meeting to be held here next Sunday night at McDowell auditorium. Prof. Henry M. Busch, chairman of the defense council of Greater Cleveland, will be the speaker.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Organizations of the city and county are cooperating with the county defense council in making arrangements for the meeting. S. F. Jameson, principal of Ashland high school, is executive director of the county defense council.

It has been estimated by the county defense council that 1,000 persons will be required to carry on the defense program in Ashland county. This is in addition to the city where defense registration has already been held and more than 700 persons have volunteered for civilian defense.

Rabbi Levine To Address Civic Clubs, Public Meeting on 'I Saw London Bombed.'

Rabbi Raphael Levine of the Liberal Jewish synagogue in London will address both a joint Optimist-Kiwanis club meeting and an open forum in the Johnny Appleseed junior high school auditorium tomorrow.

Using "I Saw London Bombed" as his subject, he will speak to the civic clubs at noon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel and to the open meeting at 8 p. m.

In announcing the talk, E. C. Geiger of the Optimist club, said that members of other civic clubs in Mansfield are also invited.

Rabbi Levine comes to Mansfield under the sponsorship of the B'nai B'rith lodge. There is no charge for his evening lecture.

A fire spotter and air raid precaution worker, he has stated that the British people will never consider any end to the present war "except in an unqualified victory for the Allied cause."

Before coming to the United States the Rabbi saw his synagogue badly damaged by Nazi air bombs in London.

SEEK $11,346

Shelby Man, Wife Sue After She's Injured In Fall.

A Shelby man and his wife had filed two damage suits for a total of $11,346 in common pleas court today as the result of injuries suffered by the wife when she fell on an icy sidewalk in Shelby in January, 1940.

Mrs. Elizabeth Horning, who suffered a leg injury in the fall, brought an action for $10,000 against John B. Scott and Clara B. Scott of Shelby, in front of whose property she fell. Edward Horning filed an action for $1,346 to cover hospital and doctor expenses and the loss of Mrs. Horning's companionship.

In her petition, Mrs. Horning contends that she suffered permanent injury to her leg and ankle. She accuses the Scotts of negligence in failing to keep the sidewalk free from ice. The plaintiffs are represented by Attys. Anderson, Wills and Lutz of Mansfield and Shelby.

MAPS 10-POINT RECREATIONAL PLAN FOR CITY

Cram, In Charge of Defense Physical Fitness Committee, Announces Program.

A 10-point program for defense recreation and physical fitness under the civilian defense program has been set up by Don Cram, director of the defense recreation and physical fitness committee, and six sub-committees appointed by him.

A city-wide organization designed to provide every type of recreation as well as to aid Mansfielders in keeping in good physical condition, the committee is making a plea for volunteer leaders to aid in carrying the project out.

"We are contacting clubs, lodges, and other civic groups now for leaders who will be given a leadership training course at the Y. M. C. A. under Mrs. Albert Yuncker," said Cram.

The 10-point program which has been set up by Cram, working with six sub-committees includes the following: (1) Organization of a Junior Park association at all city parks; (2) Organization of children's clubs centered around the city parks; (3) Promotion of city playgrounds with volunteer leadership from the Park association and various civic groups; (4) Placing of recreation and athletics on a mass scale the year around in Mansfield; (5) Organization of various outdoor clubs, as hiking, cycling, badminton, and nature groups; (6) Cooperation with present athletic and recreational groups; (7) Cooperation with industrial leaders in planning and maintaining physical fitness and recreation for plant employes; (8) Emphasis on the value of our public parks, and the need for recreation in was as well as peace-time; (9) A survey of Mansfield for "toy playground sites" for the use of children of working mothers; and (10) Assisting community groups in planning parties, picnics, and other entertainment.

Cram urged anyone interested in aiding promotion of this program to contact him, or to call at the Volunteer office on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A.

Heading the sub-committees appointed by Cram are Mrs. Norma Miklich, in charge of recreation for women and girls; R. B. Chapman, community agencies and institutions; Harry Bowman, public parks association; Ed Wylie, recreation equipment; recreation volunteer office, Genevieve Buzenski; and Mrs. Albert Yuncker, leadership training.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

MRS. W. A. HARBESON GIVES DELIGHTFUL TALK

Victorian Club Hears History of Mansfield In Interesting Sketch Presented on Program at Women's Club.

WHEN members of the Victorian club met at the Women's Club Monday afternoon, they were entertained with a delightful sketch of Mansfield by Mrs. W. A. Harbeson, who is well known for her gift of story telling. She traced the growth of the town from the difficult pioneering days through changes of a great development period to its present attainment. With many an amusing turn of phrase, Mrs. Harbeson, whose parents and grandparents also were Mansfielders, told of old customs and interesting characters.

She said that great strides were made after the railroads came into the city. Among the numerous incidents described by the speaker was one concerning the hitching posts that were located near the courthouse. Mansfielders became active in charitable projects from the time they noticed that horses had to stand in the heat of summer and cold of winter and needed care and kindness.

Mrs. Harbeson told also of the change in the town's appearance as a result of gas street lights. She mentioned two occasions which were "blows" to the growth of the city: the routing of the New York Central railroad through Galion and the location of the roundhouse in Crestline instead of in Mansfield.

There is contrast, said Mrs. Harbeson, between the political attitude of several years ago and that of today. At one time when there were two newspapers in the city, one was Democratic, the other Republican. Feelings were so decided that a member of one party would not read the paper which represented the other party. As a result, there was much excitement over elections.

One of the pleasant customs of by-gone days was that of holding open house on New Year day. Interesting characters in the history of the city were "Auntie" Bradford, a negro woman who served many of the well known families and who was beloved by all who knew her; and Miss Mary Runyan, a kindergarten teacher here for many years. Her pupils and their families never forgot her.

Hostess for yesterday's meeting was Miss Florence MacDonald. Mrs. Edwin K. Bacon and Mrs. Miller were guests. Comprehensive report of progress made by the Dental Clinic since last fall was given by the Victorian club's representative, Mrs. Anna M Knote. She informed the group that a dental room has been acquired in the city building and that equipment will be furnished through money to be received from sales tax stamps.

A valentine luncheon will be held by the club at the Women's Club on Feb. 9 at 1 p m. Hostesses will be Mrs. D. C. Lavender and Mrs. A. L. Price. Mrs. R. E. Wharton will present a paper on "Early Leaders In Ohio."

Miss Miriam Dye Named President Of Girls' Club

Miss Miriam Dye was elected president of the Lumbermens Girls' club at a meeting held Monday evening at the Southern hotel. Other officers named for the coming year were Mrs. Eva Imler, vice president; Miss Margaret Gages, secretary, and Miss Doris Simmons, treasurer. Forty members attended the meeting.

David Weimer, pianist, and George Knackstedt, vocalist, presented a program of musical selections. Ronald Kearn gave several humorous readings.. Bridge and hearts were diversions of the evening. Prizes were won by the Misses June Mertz, Marjorie Hoffman, Mary Alice Ross, Emily Burns, and Marjorie Hale.

Luncheon was served buffet style from a long table attractively decorated with flowers. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Garnet Boyle, and the Misses Ila Mae Smith, Margaret Creamer, Mary Baker, Doris Simmons, and Charlotte Gray.

Family Dinner Held On Couple's 57th Anniversary

Their 57th wedding anniversary was observed by Mr. and Mrs. Arch Purdy recently with a family dinner at 6 p. m. at their home, 84 Waring avenue. The occasion was also the 87th birthday anniversary of Mr. Purdy. Children of the couple are Mrs. Walter Keeler, Mrs. Emil Zimmerman and Garfield Purdy.

Members of a club to which Mr. and Mrs. Purdy formerly belonged surprised them by calling on them during the evening. Card games were enjoyed. Recipients of prizes were Mrs. William Leach, Miss Dora McCullough and William Lowman. Lunch was served at a late hour.

The Purdys have always lived in Mansfield. Both are in good health. Mr. Purdy, now retired, formerly was employed by the state highway department.

EARNEST WORKERS TO MEET

Earnest Workers class will meet at 7:30 this evening at the home of Mrs. Lyle Terry, 648 Glendale boulevard. Mrs. W. R. Selby and Mrs. W. S. Hagerman will be associate hostesses.

Club Observes Anniversary With Party

Second anniversary of the M. and T. R Girls' club was observed with a party last evening at the Colonial Guest House. Buffet supper was served to 40 members at individual tables. Valentine appointments were used. In the center of each of the small tables was a vase containing a red candle surrounded by red and white sweetpeas. Favors were boutonnieres of red roses tied with white ribbon.

When the group was served, Mrs. Geraldine Dye, who has been chairman of the board for the past year, was presented with a corsage of gardenias and red roses by members of her board. To carry out the anniversary theme, individual birthday cakes with white icing and two red candles were served for dessert.

During the short business meeting the new board was announced as follows: Miss Eleanor Starr, chairman; Miss Ann Fogle, secretary; Mrs. Marjorie Mowery, treasurer; Miss Dorothy Arter, Mrs. Esther Frye, Mrs. Geraldine Forbes, and the Misses Jeanette Werner and Helen Wolford, assistants.

Contests were enjoyed during the evening with prizes going to Mrs. Helen Smith, Mrs. Adelyn Channel, Mrs. Alice Schmidt and Miss Werner.

Committee for the party was comprised of members of the past year's board. They were Mrs. Dye and the Misses Ethel Heuss, Naomi Grandon, Florence Case, Louise Enderle, Ruby Boyer and Barbara Schwartz.

Nurses, Defense Workers To Hear Vital Message

A message of vital importance to everyone will be delivered by Miss Mary McDevitt, of Washington, D. C., when she speaks before an audience of nurses and defense workers at the nurses' home Wednesday evening. She will explain in detail the plans made in Washington for the volunteer aid, first aid, home nursing and nurses' aides classes which are being sponsored by the Red Cross.

In her talk Miss McDevitt also will emphasize the fact that it is absolutely necessary for the public, the nurses and Red Cross workers to work in harmony and unity in order to secure the best results. Nurses from other counties, as well as those from Richland county, are invited to attend this meeting. Miss McDevitt's talk will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

Elect Officers at Dorcas Class Meet

Miss Helen Rantz was elected president of the Dorcas class of the First Lutheran church at a meeting held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Lillian Boock, 177 Vennum avenue. Other officers named were Mrs. Ethel Robinson, vice president, and Miss Louise Vigor, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Boock, retiring president, conducted the business session. Games were played and prizes won by Miss Lula Hetler and Mrs. Florence Linsenmayer. Luncheon was served butfet style from a long table decorated with patriotic appointments. The next meeting will be held Feb. 23 at the home of Miss Rantz, 199 Sycamore street.

Moran spoke on the Women's Patriotic conference which was held at the Mayflower hotel in Washington, Jan. 17 to 19. Articles on the American Legion legislative bills pending in the senate were read by Miss Grace Bonnell, legislative chairman, and Mrs. Marjorie Ludwig.

Entertainment was furnished by the Glee club of the Business and Professional Women's club with Mrs. Myrtle Booth as director and Mrs. F. H. Cahall as pianist. The entire assembly sang "God Bless America" after which the Glee club rendered the following numbers: "Sundown," theme song of the group, "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Giannina Mia," "Thine Alone," "To a Wild Rose," "A Song of Joy," and "The Woman in the Shoe."

Refreshments were served in the dining room by Mrs. William Schnug and her committee. Next meeting will be held at the Legion home on Feb. 9.

Ashland Girls Entertained By Local Sorority

Zeta Rho chapter of Delta Theta Tau sorority gave a guest night party Monday evening at "The Woods" near Ashland, in honor of 12 Ashland girls who are making plans to organize a chapter of the sorority in their city. Hostesses were the Misses Martha Pfaff and Evelyn Timmons.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Miss Mary Thompson and Mrs. Mary Lou Thompson of this city and Miss Ann Ritter of Ashland. Dessert was served at small tables decorated with flowers in pastel colors and lighted tapers.

Guests from Ashland at the meeting were the Misses Lee Baum, Kathryn Bonfiglio, Dianne Williston, Jean Williston, Beth Conklin, Marjorie Keck, Bette Helvie, Marjorie Ann Butts, Ann Ritter, Lois Hughes and Esther Bunton. The next meeting of the local sorority will be held Feb. 9, in the Warner building.

BANQUET HELD AFTER CARD GAMES MONDAY

Naomi White Shrine Circle Meets In Grotto Hall During Afternoon; Has Dinner at St. John's Evangelical Church.

AT 6 O'CLOCK last evening a banquet was enjoyed by members of Naomi White Shrine Circle at St. John's Evangelical church. Two large tables were arranged in the form of a cross and were decorated with large snowmen and snowballs. Mrs. Edna Berlo was in charge of the dinner, during which music was furnished by the De Molay band and Miss Betty Edmonstone.*

Preceding the banquet the members played card games at the Grotto hall in the afternoon. Recipient of the contract bridge prize was Mrs. Norma Miller. Mrs. Harriet Almy had high score in auction bridge. Arrangements for this party were made by Mrs. Frances Culler. Mrs. Ruby Dye presided for the business session.

Regular Shrine meeting was held at 7:30 p. m. with Miss Thelma Hursh, worthy high priestess, presiding. Candidates were initiated and the Shrine was inspected by Mrs. Elma Hullinger, past supreme worthy high priestess of Springfield. Other guests were from Mt. Gilead, Ashland, Galion and Springfield.

The Shrine will hold a benefit card party at the Grotto hall on Feb. 17 at 8 p. m. Mrs. Miriam Gross is chairman. Next regular meeting will be held on Feb. 23. At that time the anniversary of the Shrine will be celebrated.

Bride-Elect Honored With Party Monday

Miss Annabelle Strong, bride-elect of John R. Hattery, was feted with a miscellaneous shower Monday evening at the home of Mrs. John E. Schuckmann, 843 Andover road. Hostesses were Miss Phyllis Brown, Miss June Ford and Mrs. Schuckmann. Bridge was the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. R. L. Beal and Mrs. William Todd.

Luncheon was served at a long table centered with an attractive arrangement of sweet peas and lighted tapers. The eight guests presented the honoree with many gifts at the close of the evening.

Miss Strong, daughter of Mrs. H. W. Norrick, 286 South Diamond street, and Mr. Hattery, son of Dr. and Mrs. John S. Hattery, 525 Woodhill road, will exchange nuptial vows tomorrow at 4 p. m. in the First Presbyterian church. Rev. D. N. Roller will officiate at the closed service.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"How?" Olina asked breathlessly, adding hurriedly, "I'll do anything you wish, anywhere, at any time."

"I know you will," I told her, "and this is what I wish. For some reason, my father wants a third person at these interviews with Redfield — somebody of whom he'll have no suspicion—and Mary has suggested you as the ideal candidate."

I made my last words light and accompanied them with a smile, for I saw that she was at high tension. But there was no answering smile from her. Stark surprise and gratification were her only emotions.

"Mary!" she exclaimed. "Suggested me! Oh, I'm so glad! That proves what I've been hoping—that she's forgotten—I mean forgiven, for she never could forget—the trouble I once tried to make for her."

The proud head drooped with her last words, and her face was shadowed. Sympathy for her was strong within me, but equally strong was my sense of justice.

"When you know Mary better," I said judicially, "you will realize that she is not only forgiveness itself—too much so for her own good sometimes — but that she also is quick to forget an injury. When she wipes a slate clean, no traces of pencil marks remain. And I can tell you, of my own knowledge, that she not only has no rancor against you, but that she genuinely admires and likes you. I will not use a stronger word, for Mary gives her love to but few people, but she has a sense of comradely friendship with you that, I imagine, should appeal strongly to you."

Olina Relieved.

She gave a relieved sigh that appeared to come from the soles of her shoes.

"You never can know how happy you have made me," she said, "not only by your assurance of Mary's feeling toward me, but by what you have told me of her reason for going out with Redfield. I was terribly worried about the whole situation, but it was nothing about which I could speak to Mary or Noel—especially Noel," she finished with a twisted smile.

"Of course not," I said encouragingly as she paused.

"I thought and worried until it seemed as if I were running round and round in a treadmill," she went on, "and then when you so cleverly stepped in and steered Noel away from Redfield at the party, I realized that you must know all about the trouble, and I've been waiting my first chance to see you. I told Mama what I was going to ask you, and she fully approved."

Wants Olga's Approval.

"I hope she also will approve of your making a third on those excursions—and that your stepfather will make no objections."

"He may make objections," Olina said, with the first smile I had seen on her face, "but they won't do him any good. Mama can make him actually see that black is white, and although she never makes an open issue of anything, her word is absolute law to him. I only hope, when I get a husband, if I ever do, I'll be able to manage him the way Mama does."

"It wouldn't be good for you," I told her smiling, but meaning every word of the homily, "or for any other young woman. Your mother has been tempered by long suffering, and your stepfather has loved her from afar and without hope for so many years, that of course he can deny her nothing. But any such an arrangement, would be fatal to your happiness, so don't waste your time envying it."

Sure of Consent.

"I really don't intend doing that," Olina said with an answering smile. "And as for Mama's approval of your plan—she may not approve, but she will consent to it when I tell her that you wish it. She probably will want to talk to you about it, if you have time." She stopped and eyed me uncertainly.

"I shall make time for your mother," I told her heartily and sincerely. "And now there is something else I would like to have you do for me after you have talked with your mother, something that must be done within the next half hour."

She gave me a look that would have heartened anyone, full of confidence and resolution.

"I am at your service for anything," she said.

Should Hilda Go To College?

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

HILDA always had succeeded pretty well at school. Last year in September as a seventh grader she entered junior high. When her grades for the first half year came home you had a sinking feeling. So had Hilda. The way you acted then had much to do with Hilda's future. If you exploded and abused the child, you doubtless did a lot of damage. If you didn't, you had marvelous self-control.

The chances are that during that half year Hilda had some work assigned at school, and that she rarely had had much of it before. While in the grades she had more personal supervision; indeed, she may have had only a single teacher for a whole term. But in junior high Hilda has a teacher for each subject. She has more liberties now, more choices she can make, and not so many checks upon her preparation.

Hilda is delighted with the new regime. When you inquire about her home work she has "none," or she has "a study period for that tomorrow." She is very optimistic about everything until her grades come home.

You have had your heart set on Hilda's going to Keebo college. It was your own dear alma mater. But suppose Hilda goes on failing in English? She won't be allowed then to study foreign languages, and Keebo has been noted for it's French and Latin. What is more, old Keebo's standards have been raised. Only those who rank in the upper third of their high school are admitted.

Suppose you say all this aloud to Hilda? Then suppose Hilda says: "I don't want to go to college. A private secretary's job for me. I want to earn some money when I finish high school, and I know some girls getting $25 a week who never finished high school."

In case all of this has happened, your next move is to put the soft pedal on Keebo. Better make no reference to college for a good long while.

Better have a conference with the junior high school principal and, in turn, with each of Hilda's teachers. Go seeking their advice. Once you have ample unbiased evidence that Hilda has average or above average learning ability, work out a program with the girl.

Keeping a Schedule.

See that she is always home on evenings preceding regular school days. See that she follows by the clock a routine program of sending herself to bed every night, assuring ample sleep and no family annoyance. See that following the dinner hour she sets to work at a particular place and for a definite time to prepare her lessons.

If there are no assignments, let her read, doing some intellectual work merely for the sake of cultivating a habit of regular application. Let her playmates know that she cannot be seen, since it is her study period.

After a few weeks get in touch again with her teachers. Liberally praise her for every evidence of progress. Remove all possible annoyance and do all you can to create in her a hopeful, happy attitude toward school and toward the world.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

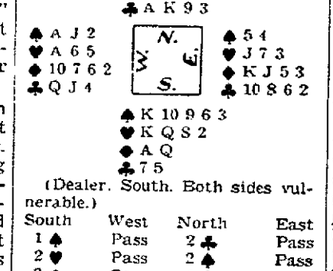
"The Authority on Authorities"

NO NEED TO BE AFRAID

LOTS OF players get stage fright when they are up against the famous stars of the game. They feel that they must change their regular style in some pronounced way, and thereby usually take a bad trouncing because they attempt something to which they are not accustomed. But plenty of others, whose game is pretty close to that of the celebrities, do not let themselves be scared. They put up their regular game, trying nothing foolish, the only change being perhaps a little more thorough thinking out of each problem. By doing this, they score maximum results on plenty of deals.



(Dealer, South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

Mrs. Desmond Wray of Lynchburg, Va., playing at Richmond in her first national championship, did not let two of the country's best-known players frighten her at all on this deal. Partnered by George F. Ball of Richmond, she bid the South cards perfectly, and then proceeded to play perfectly in the face of refusal of any help to her by the defenders, who were Maureen O'Brien of San Francisco, in the East, and Harry Fishbein of New York, winner of many titles.

The diamond 2 lead enabled Mrs. Wray's A to catch the K, and the spade 3 was led at once to the Q. Next she opened the crucial heart suit, leading the 10, which Miss O'Brien refused to cover. She put on the Q, and Mr. Fishbein let it win. After the club 5 to the A, the spade 7 was led to the 10, the J winning and Mr. Fishbein taking out dummy's last trump with the A before offering his club Q to the K. When the heart 9 was led and Miss O'Brien refused to cover that, Mrs. Wray had the critical guess to make.

Deciding that the fine opponents would have done the same thing she did, she counted them as having just the cards they did. She played low from her own hand, and the A had to be used to win the trick. This left her K good, and she made her contract. Had she put in the K on that trick, the A would have killed it, establishing the J for the setting trick.

Tension Upsets the Beauty Cart

By MME QUI VIVE

Chase after the compacts and lipsticks, spend hours on your hair, be fussy when shopping for frocks and hats, but do not forget that there's a mental side to this good looks game. It is a fact that many women "think" their beauty ills upon themselves. Noisy children cause them to frown. The papa upsets the ashtray and they give him a bit of a jawing, pulling their eyes together when they do it. They don't plan the day's activities, but go rushing around, arriving late at appointments and, because of hurry and tension, their faces are drawn and frigid.

One can relax while working. It is the truth. Getting fussed and jittery throws one out of mental balance. Yes, dear reader, things are always happening to disturb you. You're right. And they will go right on happening. They are items in the bill of life. One must get used to them, take them on the chin and grin. That is, if one is to stay sweet, keep within finger touch of one's youth, and look pretty.

The face that remains placid and lovely through the years is that way because of a courageous spirit, a tight rein on the emotions, splendid mental health. The woman who is easily disturbed, who cherishes jealousy, resentment or hatred is in the wrinkle growing business. She will have big crops of them, and early ones too. She sows the seeds in her thoughts.

Nervous tension casts its glowering shadows upon the countenance. Contraction of the heavy muscles of the face produces trenches. The woman who pulls in her chin, purses her lips in irritation, strains the small fibers surrounding the mouth. In time there are up and down lines like a picket fence.

Old Sour-mug pulls down her mouth corners with the result that she gets saggy jaw lines and furrows from lip ends to nostrils. A more cheerful outlook, a smile now and then and the tissues stay firm. There's no doubt about it; we do think a lot of beauty griefs upon ourselves.

Every woman, young and old, must watch her facial gestures. Pleasing ones are invigorating to the facial structure. Those that are produced by the obstinate disposition, the critical mind, the holier-than-thou attitude are depleting, devastating.

Squinting isn't always due to strong sunlight or need of glasses; it is often a habit of the calculating woman. Eye shutters half close, horrid little creases develop. They take a leasehold and, if they stay long enough, no cosmetic can dispossess them.

Worry stamps its mark upon the face. It interferes with nutrition and restful sleep. It throws the whole physical mechanism out of gear, overtaxes the nervous system.

Keep cool. Keep your shirt on. Keep your chin up.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, January 28.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

In spite of some rather disconcerting or threatening astral conditions this should be an exceedingly lively and progressive day, with the prospect of a sudden and definite pulling away from old static situations to swing into much action of a novel, unusual, or ingenious nature, bringing enduring results and increased possessions, although involving change, travel, fresh contacts, as well as new or original plans and strange objectives. There good auguries may be accompanied by the menace of fraud, loss, and secret sinister machinations.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an unusually active and intriguing year, with many developments of a surprising, unlooked for and incomprehensible nature. An onrush of the new and novel, the bold and ingenious, come to the fore, demanding changes and rearranged programs and plans. There may be travel, fresh contacts, revised agreements, much correspondence and dealing with agencies. All this should spell progress, thrills and good fortune providing that vigilance, shrewdness and reasonable procedures circumvent sinister, secret and subtle attempts to ensnare, betray, ruin and defraud.

A child born on this day should have splendid talents probably seeking form in strange, extraordinary, original or unorthodox ways. Ability to write thrill or mystery yarns is shown, although it has depth and vision as well as imagination and strange fancies.

Home-Mixed Syrup Relieves Coughs Quickly

Saves Big Dollars. So Easy! No Cooking.

The surprise of your life is waiting for you, in your own kitchen, when it comes to the relief of coughs due to colds. In just a moment, you can mix a cough syrup that gives you about 4 times as much for your money, and is amazing for quick results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup, and you have a full pint of really wonderful cough medicine. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing. You'll say it's astounding in its action.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

It's all settled. The war will be over by May 16.

One of the wire services yesterday, in reporting the Sunday meeting of the Ohio Conference in Mansfield, said the conference tennis tournament had been moved from Kenyon to Berlin on May 16.

Of course you may argue that the telegraph operator merely dropped the "O" off of Oberlin, but it reads much better the other way.

O, Berlin, here we come!

Bob Wright, athletic director of Mount Union college, told me Sunday the Mounts like the basketball officiating of Mansfield high grid Coach Paul Snyder very much, and would like to see him working a few more games on the Mount schedule next winter.

Snyder recently officiated the Mount Union - Heidelberg game, one of a number of Ohio Conference tilts on his program this season.

Paul nearly lost his officiating reputation in his own home town not so long ago when he let John Simpson run wild against the Tyger reserves, "just for the fun of the thing."

It's becoming a custom for Ohio Conference representatives meeting in Mansfield to find much more interesting topics of conversation than the immediate business at hand.

They met here last fall on the eve of the Mansfield-Massillon game, and while there was nothing they could do to help Mansfield win that important grid battle, that was just about all they talked about. Most of them wished Mansfield well, you'll recall.

Sunday their most serious conversation was about war.

"And are you going to adopt resolutions on how to win the war?" I asked Rudy Kutler, president of the conference managers and athletic director at Kenyon.

"I wish we could," he retorted earnestly.

"And how about joining this physical education program in one of the armed forces?" I queried.

"I'm doing everything I can to get into that" replied Kutler, who would be leaving his wife and a five-year-old daughter at home.

With all the college and high school coaches joining the armed service, it appears the game of football soon will be "given back to the boys," whether they want it or not.

With the induction into the army this week of Harry Siegbert, first baseman, there are now five of last summer's Mansfield Braves in the nation's armed forces

First to go were Tim Mangan, catcher, who is now attending an army pharmacy school in San Francisco, and Bob TeStruth, second baseman.

Chuck Byers was taken in the draft last fall, and last week Bill Salem joined the army air corps.

"My friends around town will never believe me when I come back from Florida with my tall fish stories,' complains Gordon Swan 747 Overlook road

"So tonight the Cooperative club will dine on three groupers, weighing 45 pounds which Charles Hedges and I brought back Sunday from Boneti Springs Fla

The dinner is booked at a Mifflin lake cottage Yes the boys have had the fish on ice

Buckeyes Trounce Chicago

Victory Doesn't Help Chances In Big Ten Race.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State's in-and-out basketball team soundly thumped Chicago's cellar-dwelling cagers, 63 to 35, last night but the Buck's chances of advancing from the lower ranks of the Big Ten race appeared slim today.

The Ohioans entertain Purdue Saturday. Purdue grudgingly yielded its second place berth behind Illinois to Minnesota, and the prospects of defeating the Boilermakers seemed none too rosy despite the showing against the Windy city lads.

* * *

Although Ohio State dominated throughout and led 25-17 at halftime, play was slow until substitutes were injected freely in the second half and stepped up the pace.

Jack McLain, Buck forward, was high scorer with 13 points.

The victory, State's third in seven conference starts, left the Bucks third from the bottom in the standings. It was Chicago's seventh loop defeat without a win. Michigan's loss to Indiana kept the Wolverines in the penultimate niche.

Minnesota, back in second place in the Big Ten basketball race, has played eight of its 15 games. Next on the Gophers' schedule is Michigan, whom they play Saturday night at Ann Arbor. After that comes eighth-place Ohio State—and then the Purdue Boilermakers again

The affair last night, which dropped Purdue into third place, was Minnesota's game all the way. Indiana moved into a tie with Northwestern and Iowa for fifth place by lambasting Michigan, 64-36.

Simpson Nips Loudonville

Takes First, Second Tilts By One-Point Margin.

John Simpson Junior high school cagers fattened their season's average yesterday at the expense of the Loudonville seconds, winning both the top and reserve games by a single point.

In the First team Simpson-Loudonville seconds game, the Mansfielders won, 32-31, while in the reserve game they won, 23-22.

The varsity game started with Coach Leo Grimes' team leading 15-11 at the end of the first quarter but going scoreless in the second as Simpson ran up six more tallies.

* * *

Loudonville tied the game up, 23 all, in the third quarter, but Simpson managed to score one more point in the last frame to win.

High scorer was DePue of Simpson with 19 points

LEE HOLDS OUT FOR MORE DOUGH FROM WHITE SOX

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(AP)— With the notation "not enough money," Thornton Lee, the American league's leading southpaw of 1941, today returned the third contract sent him by the Chicago White Sox.

The time has come, Lee asserted, for the White Sox to pay for those 22 victories he racked up last season.

Optimists Cut Legion Lead

Score Shutout Over Club Loop Top Team.

Optimists blanked the Club league-leading American Legion keglers 3-0 last night at Colony alleys, cutting the Legion's margin to two games.

Art Hilborn led the Optimist attack with a 647 total on games of 201-213-233, while Pete Grohol turned in a 628 for the Legion on 219-214-195.

* * *

Carl Wiseman had the league's only other 600 total, chalking up 610 on 203-216-191 Hilborn's 233 also was high game for the league.

Rams Meet Loudonville

Grimesmen Risk 9-Game Win Streak at Madison.

Loudonville high school will risk a string of nine straight victories tonight when its cage team takes the floor at Madison high school.

Coach Leo Grimes' players are currently holding down the top berth in the Central Buckeye league while the Rams are third in the Richland county loop.

Madison has lost two games this season, one to Crestline and the other to Butler high school.

Other county games will match Union at Lucas in a non-loop tilt. Lucas is tied for fourth with Lexington in the Richland county race while Union is sixth. Lucas has won two and lost two while Union has won two and lost three.

Whippets Invade Bucyrus Friday

SHELBY — Shelby Whippets will motor to Bucyrus Friday night to play the Redmen in the first North Central Ohio League cage game of the second half schedule.

Mt. Vernon leads the league with five consecutive wins at the close of the first round.

Shelby line-up was weakened recently with the absence of Junior Keiser, star guard, who quit the team to accept a job. Keiser was one of the best players on the Whippets' squad and one of the four veterans back from last year.

Bucyrus will be favored in the game as it has won several games in the league. Shelby has had only one league victory. It defeated Galion last Friday, 27 to 17, at Galion.

Pastor-Lesnevich Meet In Big Bout

Meeting between Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight, and Gus Lesnevich, the light heavyweight champion, in New York, Jan. 30, is important for both battlers. If Pastor gets by Lesnevich and then whips Lem Franklin, Cleveland heavyweight, in a February bout in Cleveland, the former Golden Gloves star may get another shot at Louis' title. Lesnevich also is angling at a title shot.

Cabs Cling To Top Ranking

Two Leading Teams Each Capture Three Games.

Safety Cabs clung to the top rung of the Commercial "C" bowling league ladder at Colony alleys last night by a one-game margin over Buckeye Beers as each team turned in 3-0 victories.

Claude Watts of the Buckeyes set the league pace with a 581 total and high game of 245.

NATIONAL HOT STOVERS MOVE TO ALLIANCE

ALLIANCE—(INS)—The National Hot Stove league, that talkfest organization of baseball fans which has more than 100 chapters, today transferred its national headquarters to Alliance from Selma, Ala.

The headquarters are established in the home city of the executive secretary. The new official of that rank is C. H. Butler, jr., head of the Alliance chapter, who succeeds Dr. Anne E. Gray, of Selma.

Sauer Stopped By Clevelander

Smith Also Defeated In Golden Gloves Tourney.

Mansfield's Mike Sauer, chief hope of Friendly House to duplicate the Cleveland Golden Gloves championships copped last year by Paul Carbetta and Leonard Waddell, and the year before by Beauford Glover, was bopped out of the picture last night in the second round of his semi-final 147-pound novice division battle with Pete McNamara of Cleveland.

Mauling Mike already had turned in one victory for the evening over Copeland Turner of Cleveland in the quarter finals, but the double duty proved too much for one night.

Sauer got away to a bad first round against Turner, but rallied to cop the nod with some hard body punching in the last two heats.

Then came the semi-finals, and Pete McNamara, and a knockout defeat for Mike in the second round.

Leonard Smith, Mansfield novice heavyweight, dropped the duke to Roy Welch of Cleveland in the semi-finals of the novice division, which brought about the elimination of the last of the Mansfield stable of 10 fighters who entered the tourney last week.

Hedges Holds League Lead

Bushnell Loses Ground In Elementary Cage Race.

Although the league leading Hedges club held its position in the elementary school race yesterday, Bushnell school dropped into a tie with Prospect for fifth place.

Bushnell, playing on the John Simpson floor, was beaten by Bowman, 35-13, while Prospect passed Brinkerhoff, 14-8 on the Johnny Appleseed court.

* * *

Hedges, on its own floor, extended the Western losing streak to four straight with a 34-12 win.

Newman, in third place, trounced West Fifth, 30-6, on the Simpson floor while Carpenter tripped Woodland, 10-8, in an upset at Appleseed.

William Reynolds of Bowman led the scoring with 18 points scored on nine baskets. Other high scorers were Gene Robbins of Hedges, 16 points; Shelden Swan, Prospect, 14; Richard Poth and Eldon Pritchard, both Newman, 13 and 12.

Scioto County Cager Eyes New State Scoring Record

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — That 484-point basketball record set in the 1937-38 season by Toronto's Tom Kinkade was definitely on its way out today—with "Lefty" Nelson, senior forward of the Washington Township team of Nauvoo (Scioto county) ready to climb upon the throne.

* * *

The southpaw adding machine of the southern Ohio class A team, which has won 19 of its 20 starts, has racked up 480 points in 26 contests, and has five tilts to go. He missed Kinkade's high-average mark by one-fifth of a point per game, Tom getting his 484 in 20 games, while Nelson has 480 for that many contests.

In last week's scrap with South Webster, Nelson needed 27 points to tie Kinkade's high-average record, but he settled for 23 as his squad took a 54 to 27 win. In the last 55 games Washington Township has been beaten twice, losing to Waterloo's Wonders a year ago, and dropping a one-pointer to once-beaten Portsmouth East this campaign.

Nelson isn't the only high-counter in the scholastic realm. Sylvester Goedde of Vaughnsville, with a 32-point splurge against Bilboa last week, hoisted his 11-game total to 317 points—an uncanny average of almost 29 per game.

Johnny Van Horn, five-foot five-inch star of the Rosewood team which has dropped seven of its 15 games, scored 50 against Greene Township for the season's high mark, boosting his average to 22.2 Fritz Nagy of Akron South, playing in the state's stiffest competition, came up with 17 and 26-point totals in two starts last week, giving him 248 for 12 games, an average of 20.6, while Gregory of Vinton Rural ran up 318 points in 13 games for a 24.5 mark. Other high scorers last week included Charley Myer of Tuscarawas, 26; Burton of Barnesville, 25; Joe White of Magnolia, 30; Reese of Pandora, 26, and Carl Creamer of Jeffersonville, 27, for 288 in 14, an average of 20.7.

The class A champion, Martins Ferry, won its 11th of the season and its 28th in a row by beating Wheeling, W. Va., but stayed a couple of games behind Toledo Central and Akron North, which soared on to their 13th victories. Union Furnace,

CHAPTER XVIII

Steve returned home the following evening, tired and harassed after repeated sessions with his publisher. Laughing a little at himself, he said, "I probably would not have written the book if I'd known what I was getting into."

"Nonsense," Linda retorted spiritedly. "You're loving every minute of this, Steve Baridon, and well you should. Imagine being a successful novelist. I—I'm terribly proud of you."

They were seated in the library enjoying coffee and after-dinner cigarets, Linda looked small and earnest in a gown of soft white crepe, her hair brushed high on her forehead. Suddenly Steve, with a little grimace, handed her a box, and Linda opened it to reveal a beautiful sapphire bracelet nestled in a bed of satin. Tears filled her eyes as she stared down at it, and she was unable to speak naturally.

"It's so beautiful, I don't know how to—"

"That's a thank-you for those kind word, lady."

"Oh, but I didn't—"

"You've had more to do with it than you think," Steve answered hesitantly, wondering whether he should say all that he had meant to say. The speech he had rehearsed as the plane winged homeward from New York seemed stilted. "If I hadn't known your help and faith—"

"But you've been so generous already," Linda protested. "I have so many lovely things, furs, jewels—even my own car!"

"You deserve much more." They sat looking at each other in self-conscious silence, each striving to speak. Then she announced gravely:

"Greg Hollister is coming home next week." She had not meant to tell him, but the words came out in a rush, and Linda didn't know there was a lilt in her voice, a ring of happy expectancy. Nor did she see the eager light vanish from Steve's face, leaving it grim.

"So he's coming back at last," Steve paused to light his pipe. "Were you in town today?"

Linda told him quietly of her luncheon with Diane, but she omitted the details, for suddenly Steve's apparent interest in her affairs seemed to changed to indifference. He stared into space, not even listening as she described her meeting with the artist, and when, hurt and puzzled by his attitude, Linda rose and said good night, he scarcely nodded, and didn't look up until she had left the room.

The August weather was unbearably hot when Linda and Steve moved into their new apartment located on Chicago's fashionable north side. Mary had returned from her eastern trip and she offered her services in helping Linda get settled in her new surroundings. Mary was thin and pale. Deep circles ringed her eyes and much of her vivaciousness was gone. Linda felt concern for Mary's welfare, and ventured a query. But Mary laughed away Linda's fears.

"It's just that I was too active this summer," she said, "after the mad rush of getting settled in our new home after Phil and I were married. After a good rest I'll be as good as new. This time next month I'll be a different person."

"Perhaps we'll all be different this time next month," Linda said. "Oh, if only we knew what was in store for each of us!"

Mary eyed her soberly. "You're thinking about Greg Hollister," she said, and when Linda protested in surprise, Mary went on determinedly. "I'm not interfering, Linda. I know you and Steve are very happy together. You've been good to him and good for him, because he was sunk after Brenda broke their engagement. But—well, haven't you been just a wee bit in love with Greg all these months?"

"I—I was very much in love with Greg when he went away," Linda admitted, "and so I suppose I won't know how enduring that love really was until I see him again. Naturally," here Linda flushed, "Steve comes first."

"Of course," Mary said. "Of course."

Linda looked at her sharply. Was it possible, she wondered, that Mary's innocent face masked far more comprehension than her outward appearances warranted? How much did Steve's little sister really understand?

Greg Hollister had been in Chicago for over a week before Linda heard of him again, and then, one morning, Diane telephoned, breathless with excitement.

"Brenda and Jerry Coleman just flew back from Bermuda, and we're entertaining for Greg tonight in their new home. You and Steve simply must come!"

"Brenda—" Linda experienced an odd pang of disappointment, and something else—something akin to fear. She hadn't seen the former model since the wedding reception nearly a year ago.

After their marriage, Brenda and her husband had spent the winter in Florida and then had gone to Bermuda and the West Indies for the summer. Now Diane's cool voice assured Linda that Steve's former sweetheart had returned. Linda was at a loss to explain this strange, new emotion she was experiencing. Why should she wish Brenda would never return to Chicago? Surely the wife of Jerry Coleman would mean nothing to her.

"I know you two will be meeting up with old friends, but surely your own happiness is a safeguard against any—shall we say—embarrassing situations?"

Linda had scarcely heard Diane, but she said quickly, "It's just that it might be—well, a trifle awkward."

"Oh, surely not! We want you to come, so please don't disappoint us. Dancing starts at ten."

* * *

After she had replaced the telephone on its base, Linda ran to stare at her reflection in the mirror. Seeing her flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes, she knew that the feeing for Greg which had been dormant for so long had flared again. Linda glanced at her wrist watch, and then, with the knowledge of a thousand things she must do that day, dashed off a hasty note to Steve and left the apartment.

Returning home hours later, her arms filled with boxes, Linda found Steve waiting, still wearing jodhpurs after a day in the country.

"I tried all day to get you, but you were out," he said, eyeing her packages.

"I dismissed Mary for the afternoon and spent my time in the beauty shop."

"But not all afternoon," he grinned, "considering these packages."

Linda touched them self-consciously. "Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Coleman are entertaining for Greg Hollister. We're invited."

"So," Steve said grimly. "We kill two birds with one stone."

"I don't know what you mean."

"As I remember," Steve said pleasantly, "the reason we entered into the blessed state of Holy Matrimony was because of Brenda and Greg and our unrequited love. Now we all meet again, to prove — or try to prove — how happy and contented we are, when all the time—" Steve gripped her arm, forcing her to meet his eyes "—when all the time we're miserable. Isn't that right?"

Linda wanted to protest — to cry out, "That isn't true; the past few months have been wonderful," but Steve's eyes were cold and remorseful, his manner foreboding. "I—suppose so," she murmured, and Steve released her so abruptly that she staggered back against the wall.

"Then let's get ready for the masquerade," Steve said brusquely. "We have no time to waste."

Never before had Linda given as much attention to her appearance as she did that night, and when at last Steve rapped discreetly at her door, she was waiting expectantly, a lovely vision in shimmering cloth of gold, her shoulders rising smooth and white, from the low-cut bodice. A single flower quivered in her copper curls, and her eyes pleaded for approval.

Steve stared at his wife without speaking, but Linda was unaware of the way his eyes lighted as they rested on her loveliness.

"Do I look the wife of a talented and successful author?" she demanded pertly, unconsciously happier because the temporary coolness which had existed between them seemed forgotten now.

"Linda," Steve began uncertainly, "I've been waiting for an opportunity to tell you—"

"And do you think Greg will recognize me as the little waif from Prairievale?" Linda was smiling to herself. She did not see the eager look fade from Steve's face, for although her words had been uttered casually she could not conceal her rising color or the way her nervous fingers tugged at the golden dress.

"Shall we go?" Steve asked, almost harshly, although Linda noticed a difference in his manner, she was too excited and carried away by her own thoughts to mention that fact until it was too late.

The beautiful new home of Brenda and Jerry Coleman was ablaze with lights, and the music of a famous orchestra drifted on the cool, autumn air. Walking into the mansion on Steve's arm, Linda was the center of all eyes. Gone was the shy, uncertain girl whose debut in Chicago had been very nearly disastrous. In her place was a self-assured young woman. This was Linda's triumph and she revelled in it.

As they made their way through the crowded foyer, Linda heard excitedly uttered whispers as person after person pointed them out. "There's Steven Baridon and his wife . . ." "—Baridon, a writer you know," ". . . certainly made a name for himself as an author, and that lovely wife of his . . ."

There was a sudden flurry in the brilliantly-lighted ballroom as Linda and Steve entered, and from a huddled group of young men, smart and assured in their well-cut clothes, Brenda Coleman emerged, making her way across the polished floor, a tall, blond goddess in white.

"Steve! Steve! darling, this is a nice welcome home!"

THEATERS

Romantic Comedy.

Rosalind Russell again plays the role of the light comedienne in "Design For Scandal," opening Wednesday at the Ohio, with Walter Pidgeon as co-star. Miss Russell plays an alluring woman judge whom Pidgeon, a magazine photographer, hopes to involve in a scandal in order that his boss, played by Edward Arnold, can evade paying the alimony which the judge has awarded the boss's wife. Mary Beth Hughes is cast as Arnold's wife and others in the cast are Lee Bowman, Guy Kibbee and Barbara Jo Allen.

War Thriller.

Played against a background of bomb-wrecked London in September, 1940, "Confirm or Deny," the thrill-packed story of a newspaperman who gives up the scoop of a lifetime for the love of a girl, opens Wednesday at the Madison. Don Ameche and Joan Bennett are co-starred in the picture, Ameche as a Yankee news scribe, representing an American syndicate, and Miss Bennett as an English girl whose loyalty to country surpasses everything. Roddy McDowall and John Loder are in the cast. Lupe Velez in "Honolulu Lu," with Leo Carrillo and Bruce Bennett is the co-attraction.

Air Picture.

"A Yank In the R. A. F." starring Tyrone Power, Betty Grable and John Sutton is the attraction at the Ritz. "Moon Over Her Shoulder," with Lynn Bari, is the second attraction.

Singapore Drama.

"The Blond From Singapore," opening Wednesday at the Park, presents Leif Erikson as an R. A. F. pilot on the loose in Singapore and Florence Rice as a jewel thief posing as a missionary's daughter. The pilot and his mechanic have pearls in their possession and fail to realize the girl's true identity until the stones are taken. Lumsden Hare, Adele Rowland and Richard Terry are in the cast. "South of Tahiti," with Brian Donlevy, Broderick Crawford and Andy Devine, is the second picture.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

It's all settled. The war will be over by May 16.

One of the wire services yesterday, in reporting the Sunday meeting of the Ohio Conference in Mansfield, said the conference tennis tournament had been moved from Kenyon to Berlin on May 16.

Of course you may argue that the telegraph operator merely dropped the "O" off of Oberlin, but it reads much better the other way.

O, Berlin, here we come!

Bob Wright, athletic director of Mount Union college, told me Sunday the Mounts like the basketball officiating of Mansfield high grid Coach Paul Snyder very much, and would like to see him working a few more games on the Mount schedule next winter.

Snyder recently officiated the Mount Union-Heidelberg game, one of a number of Ohio Conference tilts on his program this season.

Paul nearly lost his officiating reputation in his own home town not so long ago when he let John Simpson run wild against the Tyger reserves, "just for the fun of the thing."

It's becoming a custom for Ohio Conference representatives meeting in Mansfield to find much more interesting topics of conversation than the immediate business at hand.

They met here last fall on the eve of the Mansfield-Massillon game, and while there was nothing they could do to help Mansfield win that important grid battle, that was just about all they talked about. Most of them wished Mansfield well, you'll recall.

Sunday their most serious conversation was about war.

"And are you going to adopt resolutions on how to win the war?" I asked Rudy Kutler, president of the conference managers and athletic director at Kenyon.

"I wish we could," he retorted earnestly.

"And how about joining this physical education program in one of the armed forces?" I queried.

"I'm doing everything I can to get into that" replied Kutler, who would be leaving his wife and a five-year-old daughter at home.

With all the college and high school coaches joining the armed service, it appears the game of football soon will be "given back to the boys," whether they want it or not.

* * *

With the induction into the army this week of Harry Siegbert, first baseman, there are now five of last summer's Mansfield Braves in the nation's armed forces.

First to go were Tim Mangan, catcher, who is now attending an army pharmacy school in San Francisco, and Bob TeStruth, second baseman.

Chuck Byers was taken in the draft last fall, and last week Bill Salem joined the army air corps.

"My friends around town will never believe me when I come back from Florida with my tall fish stories," complains Gordon Swan, 747 Overlook road.

"So tonight the Cooperative club will dine on three groupers, weighing 45 pounds which Charles Hedges and I brought back Sunday from Boneti Springs, Fla.

The dinner is booked at a Mifflin lake cottage. Yes, the boys have had the fish on ice

* * *

Now Gordon won't have to say "Oh, darn."

When friends laugh off a tall fish yarn.

Buckeyes Trounce Chicago

Victory Doesn't Help Chances In Big Ten Race.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State's in-and-out basketball team soundly thumped Chicago's cellar-dwelling cagers, 63 to 35, last night but the Buck's chances of advancing from the lower ranks of the Big Ten race appeared slim today.

* * *

The Ohioans entertain Purdue Saturday. Purdue grudgingly yielded its second place berth behind Illinois to Minnesota, and the prospects of defeating the Boilermakers seemed none too rosy despite the showing against the Windy city lads.

* * *

Although Ohio State dominated throughout and led 25-17 at halftime, play was slow until substitutes were injected freely in the second half and stepped up the pace.

Jack McLain, Buck forward, was high scorer with 13 points.

The victory, State's third in seven conference starts, left the Bucks third from the bottom in the standings. It was Chicago's seventh loop defeat without a win. Michigan's loss to Indiana kept the Wolverines in the penultimate niche.

Minnesota, back in second place in the Big Ten basketball race, has played eight of its 15 games. Next on the Gophers' schedule is Michigan, whom they play Saturday night at Ann Arbor. After that comes eighth-place Ohio State—and then the Purdue Boilermakers again.

The affair last night, which dropped Purdue into third place, was Minnesota's game all the way. Indiana moved into a tie with Northwestern and Iowa for fifth place by lambasting Michigan, 64-36.

Simpson Nips Loudonville

Takes First, Second Tilts By One-Point Margin.

John Simpson Junior high school cagers fattened their season's average yesterday at the expense of the Loudonville seconds, winning both the top and reserve games by a single point.

In the First team Simpson-Loudonville seconds game, the Mansfielders won, 32-31, while in the reserve game they won, 23-22.

The varsity game started with Coach Leo Grimes' team leading 15-11 at the end of the first quarter but going scoreless in the second as Simpson ran up six more tallies.

* * *

Loudonville tied the game up, 23 all, in the third quarter, but Simpson managed to score one more point in the last frame to win.

High scorer was DePue of Simpson with 19 points.

5 Teams Play In Settlement Loops

Friendly House leagues, playing tomorrow and Thursday, will present a five-game program this week.

* * *

In the Intermediate White loop tomorrow, the Red Birds are matched against the Tigers at 7 p. m. and the Goons vs. the All Stars.

* * *

Thursday the Senior White race will match the Isaly dairy club against Hunte's News, the Boston grocery against Rex billiards and Daleys and Sferros lunch.

LEE HOLDS OUT FOR MORE DOUGH FROM WHITE SOX

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(AP)— With the notation "not enough money," Thornton Lee, the American league's leading southpaw of 1941, today returned the third contract sent him by the Chicago White Sox.

The time has come, Lee asserted, for the White Sox to pay for those 22 victories he racked up last season.

Optimists Cut Legion Lead

Score Shutout Over Club Loop Top Team.

Optimists blanked the Club league-leading American Legion keglers 3-0 last night at Colony alleys, cutting the Legion's margin to two games.

Art Hilborn led the Optimist attack with a 647 total on games of 201-213-233, while Pete Grohol turned in a 628 for the Legion on 219-214-195.

* * *

Carl Wiseman had the league's only other 600 total, chalking up 610 on 203-216-191. Hilborn's 233 also was high game for the league.

Rams Meet Loudonville

Grimesmen Risk 9-Game Win Streak at Madison.

Loudonville high school will risk a string of nine straight victories tonight when its cage team takes the floor at Madison high school.

Coach Leo Grimes' players are currently holding down the top berth in the Central Buckeye league while the Rams are third in the Richland county loop.

Madison has lost two games this season, one to Crestline and the other to Butler high school.

Other county games will match Union at Lucas in a non-loop tilt. Lucas is tied for fourth with Lexington in the Richland county race while Union is sixth. Lucas has won two and lost two while Union has won two and lost three.

Whippets Invade Bucyrus Friday

SHELBY — Shelby Whippets will motor to Bucyrus Friday night to play the Redmen in the first North Central Ohio League cage game of the second half schedule.

Mt. Vernon leads the league with five consecutive wins at the close of the first round.

Shelby line-up was weakened recently with the absence of Junior Keiser, star guard, who quit the team to accept a job. Keiser was one of the best players on the Whippets' squad and one of the four veterans back from last year.

Bucyrus will be favored in the game as it has won several games in the league. Shelby has had only one league victory. It defeated Galion last Friday, 27 to 17, at Galion.

Pastor-Lesnevich Meet In Big Bout

Gus Lesnevich — Bob Pastor

Meeting between Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight, and Gus Lesnevich, the light heavyweight champion, in New York, Jan. 30, is important for both battlers. If Pastor gets by Lesnevich and then whips Lem Franklin, Cleveland heavyweight, in a February bout in Cleveland, the former Golden Gloves star may get another shot at Louis' title. Lesnevich also is angling at a title shot.

Cabs Cling To Top Ranking

Two Leading Teams Each Capture Three Games.

Safety Cabs clung to the top rung of the Commercial "C" bowling league ladder at Colony alleys last night by a one-game margin over Buckeye Beers as each team turned in 3-0 victories.

Claude Watts of the Buckeyes set the league pace with a 581 total and high game of 245.

NATIONAL HOT STOVERS MOVE TO ALLIANCE

ALLIANCE—(INS)—The National Hot Stove league, that talkfest organization of baseball fans which has more than 100 chapters, today transferred its national headquarters to Alliance from Selma, Ala.

The headquarters are established in the home city of the executive secretary. The new official of that rank is C. H. Butler, jr., head of the Alliance chapter, who succeeds Dr. Anne E. Gray, of Selma.

Sauer Stopped By Clevelander

Smith Also Defeated In Golden Gloves Tourney.

Mansfield's Mike Sauer, chief hope of Friendly House to duplicate the Cleveland Golden Gloves championships copped last year by Paul Carbetta and Leonard Waddell, and the year before by Beauford Glover, was bopped out of the picture last night in the second round of his semi-final 147-pound novice division battle with Pete McNamara of Cleveland.

Mauling Mike already had turned in one victory for the evening over Copeland Turner of Cleveland in the quarter finals, but the double duty proved too much for one night.

Sauer got away to a bad first round against Turner, but rallied to cop the nod with some hard body punching in the last two heats.

Then came the semi-finals, and Pete McNamara, and a knockout defeat for Mike in the second round.

Leonard Smith, Mansfield novice heavyweight, dropped the duke to Roy Welch of Cleveland in the semi-finals of the novice division, which brought about the elimination of the last of the Mansfield stable of 10 fighters who entered the tourney last week.

Hedges Holds League Lead

Bushnell Loses Ground In Elementary Cage Race.

Although the league leading Hedges club held its position in the elementary school race yesterday, Bushnell school dropped into a tie with Prospect for fifth place.

Bushnell, playing on the John Simpson floor, was beaten by Bowman, 35-13, while Prospect passed Brinkerhoff, 14-8 on the Johnny Appleseed court.

Hedges, on its own floor, extended the Western losing streak to four straight with a 34-12 win.

Newman, in third place, trounced West Fifth, 30-6, on the Simpson floor while Carpenter tripped Woodland, 10-8, in an upset at Appleseed.

William Reynolds of Bowman led the scoring with 18 points scored on nine baskets. Other high scorers were Gene Robbins of Hedges, 16 points; Shelden Swan, Prospect, 14; Richard Poth and Eldon Pritchard, both Newman, 13 and 12.

Supplies Play City Newsies

Two Teams Battle For City 'A' League Lead.

City "A" league basketball will match the undefeated Athletic Supplies against the once-beaten City News club tonight in the Mansfield Senior high school gym.

A victory by the Supplies would assure them of at least a tie in the second half of the loop race. A Newsie win would give them a tie for the first spot.

League play will start, however, at 7 p. m. with the Blue Goose Sohioans pitted against the Westinghouse Electrics for the right to stay in a challenging position to the leader.

In the second game the Yuncker Sports and the Ohio Public Service club will battle it out for cellar position, neither of the teams having won a game so far.

The City News team, a dark horse, has shown surprising power during the past two weeks and has been pointing for this tilt with the league leader. The Supplies are unbeaten in the second round of loop play.

The loser in the Westinghouse-Blue Goose fracas will automatically be dropped from further consideration in the race for loop supremacy.

Hilborn Holds High Club Mark

Art Hilborn, with an average of 196, is leading Club league bowlers who have rolled 15 or more games.

Close behind are Doolittle with 194 and Grohol with 191. In the 180 bracket are: Thull, 185; Young, 184; Frick, 183. Smith, 182 and Black sr. 181.

Tied at 179 are Pete Linster, Lutz, Garrison and Whitcomb. Wiseman and Wentz have 178, and Mertz 176.

Scioto County Cager Eyes New State Scoring Record

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—That 484-point basketball record set in the 1937-38 season by Toronto's Tom Kinkade was definitely on its way out today—with "Lefty" Nelson, senior forward of the Washington Township team of Nauvoo (Scioto county) ready to climb upon the throne.

* * *

The southpaw adding machine of the southern Ohio class A team, which has won 19 of its 20 starts, has racked up 480 points in 20 contests, and has five tilts to go. He missed Kinkade's high-average mark by one-fifth of a point per game, Tom getting his 484 in 20 games, while Nelson has 480 for that many contests.

* * *

In last week's scrap with South Webster, Nelson needed 27 points to tie Kinkade's high-average record, but he settled for 23 as his squad took a 54 to 27 win. In the last 55 games Washington Township has been beaten twice, losing to Waterloo's Wonders a year ago, and dropping a one-pointer to once-beaten Portsmouth East this

CHAPTER XVIII

Steve returned home the following evening, tired and harassed after repeated sessions with his publisher. Laughing a little at himself, he said, "I probably would not have written the book if I'd known what I was getting into."

"Nonsense," Linda retorted spiritedly. "You're loving every minute of this, Steve Baridon, and well you should. Imagine being a successful novelist. I—I'm terribly proud of you"

They were seated in the library enjoying coffee and after-dinner cigarets, Linda looked small and earnest in a gown of soft white crepe, her hair brushed high on her forehead. Suddenly Steve, with a little grimace, handed her a box, and Linda opened it to reveal a beautiful sapphire bracelet nestled in a bed of satin. Tears filled her eyes as she stared down at it, and she was unable to speak naturally.

"It's so beautiful, I don't know how to—"

"That's a thank-you for those kind word, lady."

"Oh, but I didn't—"

"You've had more to do with it than you think," Steve answered hesitantly, wondering whether he should say all that he had meant to say. The speech he had rehearsed as the plane winged homeward from New York seemed stilted. "If I hadn't known your help and faith—"

"But you've been so generous already," Linda protested. "I have so many lovely things, furs, jewels—even my own car!"

"You deserve much more." They sat looking at each other in self-conscious silence, each striving to speak. Then she announced gravely:

"Greg Hollister is coming home next week." She had not meant to tell him, but the words came out in a rush, and Linda didn't know there was a lilt in her voice, a ring of happy expectancy. Nor did she see the eager light vanish from Steve's face, leaving it grim.

"So he's coming back at last," Steve paused to light his pipe. "Were you in town today?"

Linda told him quietly of her luncheon with Diane, but she omitted the details, for suddenly Steve's apparent interest in her affairs seemed to changed to indifference. He stared into space, not even listening as she described her meeting with the artist, and when, hurt and puzzled by his attitude, Linda rose and said good night, he scarcely nodded, and didn't look up until she had left the room.

The August weather was unbearably hot when Linda and Steve moved into their new apartment located on Chicago's fashionable north side. Mary had returned from her eastern trip and she offered her services in helping Linda get settled in her new surroundings. Mary was thin and pale. Deep circles ringed her eyes and much of her vivaciousness was gone. Linda felt concern for Mary's welfare, and ventured a query. But Mary laughed away Linda's fears.

"It's just that I was too active this summer," she said, "after the mad rush of getting settled in our new home after Phil and I were married. After a good rest I'll be as good as new. This time next month I'll be a different person."

"Perhaps we'll all be different this time next month," Linda said. "Oh, if only we knew what was in store for each of us!"

Mary eyed her soberly. "You're thinking about Greg Hollister," she said, and when Linda protested in surprise, Mary went on determinedly. "I'm not interfering, Linda. I know you and Steve are very happy together. You've been good to him and good for him, because he was sunk after Brenda broke their engagement. But—well, haven't you been just a wee bit in love with Greg all these months?"

"I—I was very much in love with Greg when he went away," Linda admitted, "and so I suppose I won't know how enduring that love really was until I see him again. Naturally," here Linda flushed, "Steve comes first."

"Of course," Mary said. "Of course."

Linda looked at her sharply. Was it possible, she wondered, that Mary's innocent face masked far more comprehension than her outward appearances warranted? How much did Steve's little sister really understand?

Greg Hollister had been in Chicago for over a week before Linda heard of him again, and then, one morning, Diane telephoned, breathless with excitement.

"Brenda and Jerry Coleman just flew back from Bermuda, and we're entertaining for Greg tonight in their new home. You and Steve simply must come!"

"Brenda—" Linda experienced an odd pang of disappointment, and something else—something akin to fear. She hadn't seen the former model since the wedding reception nearly a year ago.

After their marriage, Brenda and her husband had spent the winter in Florida and then had gone to Bermuda and the West Indies for the summer. Now Diane's cool voice assured Linda that Steve's former sweetheart had returned. Linda was at a loss to explain this strange, new emotion she was experiencing. Why should she wish Brenda would never return to Chicago? Surely the wife of Jerry Coleman would mean nothing to her.

"I know you two will be meeting up with old friends, but surely your own happiness is a safeguard against any—shall we say—embarrassing situations?"

Linda had scarcely heard Diane, but she said quickly, "It's just that it might be—well, a trifle awkward."

"Oh, surely not! We want you to come, so please don't disappoint us. Dancing starts at ten."

* * *

After she had replaced the telephone on its base, Linda ran to stare at her reflection in the mirror. Seeing her flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes, she knew that the feeing for Greg which had been dormant for so long had flared again. Linda glanced at her wrist watch, and then, with the knowledge of a thousand things she must do that day, dashed off a hasty note to Steve and left the apartment.

Returning home hours later, her arms filled with boxes, Linda found Steve waiting, still wearing jodhpurs after a day in the country.

"I tried all day to get you, but you were out," he said, eyeing her packages.

"I dismissed Mary for the afternoon and spent my time in the beauty shop."

"But not all afternoon," he grinned, "considering these packages."

Linda touched them self-consciously. "Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Coleman are entertaining for Greg Hollister. We're invited"

"So," Steve said grimly. "We kill two birds with one stone."

"I don't know what you mean."

"As I remember," Steve said pleasantly, "the reason we entered into the blessed state of Holy Matrimony was because of Brenda and Greg and our unrequited love. Now we all meet again, to prove — or try to prove — how happy and contented we are, when all the time—" Steve gripped her arm, forcing her to meet his eyes "—when all the time we're miserable. Isn't that right?"

Linda wanted to protest — to cry out, "That isn't true; the past few months have been wonderful," but Steve's eyes were cold and remorseful, his manner foreboding. "I—suppose so," she murmured, and Steve released her so abruptly that she staggered back against the wall.

"Then let's get ready for the masquerade," Steve said brusquely. "We have no time to waste."

Never before had Linda given as much attention to her appearance as she did that night, and when at last Steve rapped discreetly at her door, she was waiting expectantly, a lovely vision in shimmering cloth of gold, her shoulders rising smooth and white, from the low-cut bodice. A single flower quivered in her copper curls, and her eyes pleaded for approval.

Steve stared at his wife without speaking, but Linda was unaware of the way his eyes lighted as they rested on her loveliness.

"Do I look the wife of a talented and successful author?" she demanded pertly, unconsciously happier because the temporary coolness which had existed between them seemed forgotten now.

"Linda." Steve began uncertainly, "I've been waiting for an opportunity to tell you—"

"And do you think Greg will recognize me as the little waif from Prairievale?" Linda was smiling to herself. She did not see the eager look fade from Steve's face, for although her words had been uttered casually she could not conceal her rising color or the way her nervous fingers tugged at the golden dress.

"Shall we go?" Steve asked, almost harshly, although Linda noticed a difference in his manner, she was too excited and carried away by her own thoughts to mention that fact until it was too late.

The beautiful new home of Brenda and Jerry Coleman was ablaze with lights, and the music of a famous orchestra drifted on the cool, autumn air. Walking into the mansion on Steve's arm, Linda was the center of all eyes. Gone was the shy, uncertain girl whose debut in Chicago had been very nearly disastrous. In her place was a self-assured young woman. This was Linda's triumph and she revelled in it.

As they made their way through the crowded foyer, Linda heard excitedly uttered whispers as person after person pointed them out. "There's Steven Baridon and his wife . . ." "—Baridon, a writer you know." ". . . certainly made a name for himself as an author, and that lovely wife of his . . ."

There was a sudden flurry in the brilliantly-lighted ballroom as Linda and Steve entered, and from a huddled group of young men, smart and assured in their well-cut clothes, Brenda Coleman emerged, making her way across the polished floor, a tall, blond goddess in white.

"Steve! Stevie! darling, this is a nice welcome home!"

THEATERS

Romantic Comedy.

Rosalind Russell again plays the role of the light comedienne in "Design For Scandal," opening Wednesday at the Ohio, with Walter Pidgeon as co-star. Miss Russell plays an alluring woman judge whom Pidgeon, a magazine photographer, hopes to involve in a scandal in order that his boss, played by Edward Arnold, can evade paying the alimony which the judge has awarded the boss's wife. Mary Beth Hughes is cast as Arnold's wife and others in the cast are Lee Bowman, Guy Kibbee and Barbara Jo Allen.

War Thriller.

Played against a background of bomb-wrecked London in September, 1940, "Confirm or Deny," the thrill-packed story of a newspaperman who gives up the scoop of a lifetime for the love of a girl, opens Wednesday at the Madison. Don Ameche and Joan Bennett are co-starred in the picture, Ameche as a Yankee news scribe, representing an American syndicate, and Miss Bennett as an English girl whose loyalty to country surpasses everything. Roddy McDowall and John Loder are in the cast. Lupe Velez in "Honolulu Lu," with Leo Carrillo and Bruce Bennett is the co-attraction.

Air Picture.

"A Yank In the R. A. F." starring Tyrone Power, Betty Grable and John Sutton is the attraction at the Ritz. "Moon Over Her Shoulder," with Lynn Bari, is the second attraction.

Singapore Drama.

"The Blond From Singapore," opening Wednesday at the Park, presents Leif Erikson as an R. A. F. pilot on the loose in Singapore and Florence Rice as a jewel thief posing as a missionary's daughter. The pilot and his mechanic have pearls in their possession and fail to realize the girl's true identity until the stones are taken. Lumsden Hare, Adele Rowland and Richard Terry are in the cast. "South of Tahiti," with Brian Donlevy, Broderick Crawford and Andy Devine, is the second picture.

JUDGE PUZZLE— By Gene Ahern

SPEAK IN A HUSH, AND TREAD SOFTLY,... GENIUS AT WORK!... HE'S THINKING UP WAR INVENTIONS!
SOMETHING LIKE BENDING RAILROAD TRACKS INTO BIG MAGNETIC HORSE-SHOES TO DROP IN THE OCEAN FOR TRAPPING SUBS!
HERE'S ONE THAT'LL SET YOU SOLID WITH ARMY COOKS,.... SOME KIND OF A PARING KNIFE TO TAKE THE WEEP OUT OF PEELING ONIONS!
FAP! BEGONE, YOU ZANIES!
HE LIKES THE ONION-PEELER IDEA

DEAR NOAH—WOULD THERE HAVE BEEN MORE ROOM IN THE ARK IF THE ELEPHANT HAD LEFT HIS TRUNK? EDNA LE ROY SENECA, S.C.

DEAR NOAH—CAN A PLAYER PIANO KET ITSELF UP TO A HIGH PITCH? MRS. B. FARTHING BOONE, N.C.

FAMILY JINXED

AMARILLO, Tex.—(U.P.)—The John W. Lee family hope the worst is over.

In the past few weeks:

Lee suffered a lung injury and several bone fractures in an automobile accident.

His daughter was ill with an attack of mumps.

John Carroll Lee, his 3-year-old son caught the whooping cough.

Mrs. Lee cut her thumb while slicing pumpkin and it took several stitches to close the wound.

HOW YOU CAN GET A $50 LOAN FOR $3.58

Cash Loan You Get	Choose a monthly payment plan: 6 paymts	12 paymts	15 paymts	18 paymts
$ 25	$ 4.46	$ 2.36
50	8.93	4.73
75	13.39	7.09	$ 5.84	$ 5.00
100	17.85	9.46	7.78	6.67
125	22.32	11.82	9.73	8.34

500	88.34	46.46	38.09	32.53

Why Pay More?

Six monthly instalments of $8.93 each, total of $53.58, repay a $50 loan in full. Cost thus only $3.58; only ⅓ of highest lawful charge. Borrow $20 to $500 on furniture, car or note. Just say how much you need and how you want to repay. No endorsers needed. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. 24 hour service.

Payments include charges at Household's rate of 2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $300 and ½% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $300. Compare loan rates before you borrow anywhere!

STOCK MARKET PRICES CLIMB BY FRACTIONS

Motors Do Little or Nothing While Sugars Take Rest After Big Day.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Fractionally higher prices continued to prevail in today's stock market.

Early plus signs were attached to Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Great Northern, Cheasapeake and Ohio, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone, Western Union, Cosolidated Edison, and Sears Roebuck.

Motors did little or nothing and the buoyant sugars of yesterday took a rest.

Financial headquarters studied the federal reserve compilation disclosing loans to commerce, industry and agriculture by member banks in 101 cities for the week-ended Jan. 21 fell $7,000,000 even though such lending in New York City was up $6,000,000. The loan aggregate in all centers has declined in nine out of the past 14 weeks.

FLEES IN FOG

O. S. R. Inmate Escapes From Dairy Barn Crew.

Slipping out of a dairy barn and into the fog at 11:30 p. m. yesterday, Charles A. Bright, 25, an inmate of the Ohio State Reformatory, escaped and despite the search of a prison posse was still at large this morning.

Convicted on an automobile theft charge in Union county, Bright was received at the institution June 30, 1941, to serve a one to 20-year sentence.

Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent, said that Bright had been assigned to a dairy crew and escaped while helping other inmates milk cows.

Missed 15 minutes later, he was hunted by a posse of guards but was lost in the thick fog.
